

Reuther To Head The CIO

Auto Chief Takes Post In Wind-Up Of Union Meeting

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 4 (AP)—Dynamic Walter P. Reuther was elected president of the CIO today in a political scrap winding up the labor group's annual convention.

Reuther, 45-year-old chief of the CIO's million-member auto workers union, was selected in a hotly-contested balloting over Allan S. Haywood, veteran 64-year-old executive vice president of the organization.

The voting was 3,079,181 for Reuther, and 2,613,103 for Haywood, based on the CIO's claimed membership of 5,692,284. Reuther thus won by 466,078 votes.

The red-haired Reuther, perhaps best known for his many proposals for social change in the United States, succeeds the late Philip Murray who had guided the CIO for a dozen years before his sudden death Nov. 9.

Both Sides Pledge Harmony

Despite the bitter battle between the opposing Reuther and Haywood forces, both sides pledged afterward to bury the hatchet and work together in the future.

"Despite the fact the future," Reuther said, "the CIO's top post, Reuther pledged to follow in Murray's footsteps and said he intended to build the CIO into a bigger and more effective labor organization as a monument to Murray's memory."

Reuther said "the fat men sitting on plush cushions in the Union League Clubs across the country" will be fooled if they think the CIO "is not going out here divided," he declared. "We are going out here united to carry on until we win."

He said when "reactionary managements" fail to "give the workers of America a fair share of the fruits of their work, we shall march down the picket lines of America together getting what is ours."

Haywood The Second Man

After Reuther was elected CIO president, Haywood, amid much praise for his long work in the labor movement, was unanimously re-elected as executive vice-president. James B. Carey, head of the CIO's electrical workers union, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Reuther became the third president in the CIO's 17-year history. The first was John L. Lewis, now president of the independent United Mine Workers union; the second was Murray.

The CIO, which was formed in 1935 when it splintered off from the AFL to organize some of the mass production industries, also took steps to renew negotiations with the AFL looking toward reuniting the two union organizations.

The convention adopted a resolution between the two and an eventual merger if it could be arranged.

Soybeans Close 3-Cents Lower On Trade Board

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—Soybeans, reflecting an easier trend in fats and oils markets, led other commodities lower on the Board of Trade today.

Soybeans showed a little ease early but it wasn't until the closing hour that selling picked up speed. Wheat had one short-lived upward spurt around noon, losing all the gains later, December oats were independently firm on short-covering.

Wheat closed 1/4 to 1/2 cents lower, corn 1/4 to 1/2 cents lower, oats 1/4 lower to 1/2 cents higher, rye 3/4 to 1 1/2 cents lower, and soybeans 1 1/4 to 3 1/4 cents lower.

It was corn which proved the real disappointment to the bullish contingent. Strong yesterday, corn opened barely steady and before the session was over had lost just about everything it gained yesterday.

Cash corn receipts expanded, totaling 179 cars—about 100 cars more than on other days this week.

Wheat's momentary flash of strength carried prices up around a cent from the previous close.

Negotiations Collapse In Lake City Strike

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 4 (AP)—Negotiations to end a month-long strike at the Lake City arsenal collapsed today after a settlement had appeared near.

O. L. Ring, president of the teamsters and chauffeurs union, Local No. 541, said proposals of building contractors were not acceptable.

The walkout began Nov. 11 over the discharge of a truck driver. Work of seven contractors totaling $5,500,000 have been halted by the strike.

General Uses A Form Sheet To Pick Men

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower is building his administrative staff with the aid of a lengthy report by a management consultant firm detailing qualifications required of persons appointed to key positions.

The aim of the report is to provide a yardstick for getting the ablest men in policy making jobs to avoid square pegs in round holes.

The survey was begun more than six months ago—prior to Eisenhower's nomination—by McKinsey & Company of New York at the request of Republican leaders now close to the President-elect.

Marvin Bower, a managing partner of the company, stressed today the report did not deal with job reorganization—that is, whether a certain job was necessary or whether it could be consolidated with another.

It dealt solely, he said, with the background and qualifications needed by the persons appointed to specific important posts.

He said the report did not recommend any individuals for positions. It states the job requirements and leaves it to the administration to find the persons who meet the needs.

A job reorganization study being conducted by a committee headed by Nelson A. Rockefeller is an entirely separate project from the McKinsey survey.

A copy of the McKinsey report was turned over to Eisenhower shortly after his election. Other copies have been made available to key officials already appointed and who have appointments pending.

Arthur Summerfield, postmaster general designate and chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Bower said he did not know whether Eisenhower used the report in making his Cabinet selections.

Both the consultant firm and Republican officials declined to make the report public. They also declined to say how many jobs the report dealt with.

It was described, however, as dealing only with policy-making posts and not the run-of-the-mill patronage jobs.

Festus Woman Dies Of Car Wreck Injury

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Ethel Mira, 44, of Festus, Mo., died in Incarnate Word Hospital today of injuries suffered in an auto crash in Jefferson County Nov. 25.

Her car and a tractor-trailer collided on Missouri Highway 25 near Festus.

Stevenson, Truman Won't Try To Obstruct GOP's Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for president, said today he and President Truman are agreed that "party interest must be subordinated to the interest of the country and the public welfare."

"We do not intend to try to influence Democrats in Congress to obstruct, delay or in any way imperil the national welfare and the new administration's program insofar as it is compatible with the views of our party," Stevenson said.

The Illinois governor, who came here yesterday to discuss the party's future with Truman, had an amiable session with reporters at the White House, where he is a guest.

The Democrats' two major problems, he said, are to pay off a

Truman Refuses Criticism

President Prefers To Remain Quiet On Ike's Moves

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—President Truman today refused to comment on any moves made so far by his successor, Dwight D. Eisenhower. We want to give these people a chance to operate, Truman told his news conference.

Let's see what the Republicans can do, Truman said.

In this, Truman was backing up what Adlai E. Stevenson, the unsuccessful presidential candidate, had said at an earlier White House news conference. Stevenson said he and Truman agree that "party interests must be subordinated to the interests of the country and the public welfare."

Asked about Stevenson's statement, Truman said it summed up his view quite accurately. He said he and Stevenson also talked of how to keep the party alive so it can regain control of Congress in 1954.

The subject came up when a reporter asked if he shared the views of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio on the appointment of Martin P. Durkin as the next Secretary of Labor. Taft called the appointment "incredible."

Question Brings Laughter

Durkin has been a New Deal supporter, the question put to Truman obviously was meant to bring laughter—and it did.

Truman said he thinks Durkin is a good man. But when the questioning turned to other Cabinet choices, Truman cut it off with the observation that the Republicans should be given a chance to show what they can do.

Truman also stayed away from any comment on the dispute over coal miners' wages. Yesterday he approved an increase in excess of that recommended by his own officials. Today Archibald Cox, chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board, resigned in protest.

Asked about this, Truman said the resignation hasn't reached him yet. He said he thinks the statement he put out last night on granting the increase speaks for itself.

No Startling News

It was one of those hop-skip-and-jump conferences that Truman had today, one that touched on a little of everything but produced nothing startling.

The conference even dealt with news conferences. Should Eisenhower have them, too? Of course, Truman said, it's one institution that's unique to this country, and it's the one way the public can learn what's going on. He said he is sure Eisenhower will continue the system.

Industry Requests Cut In Government's Size

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—Top leaders of industry called on the incoming Eisenhower administration today to cut the federal government down to size.

The growing power of the federal government, and how to check it, constituted a dominant and constantly recurring theme for speeches delivered on the second day of the 57th Congress of Industry sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers here.

Judge Francis Cherry, governor-elect of Arkansas, told the early 4,000 manufacturers—delegates present.

"The trend toward centralization of power in our national government stirs deep fear in the hearts of honest statesmen."

Search Planes Spot Wreckage Of C-47

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Dec. 4 (AP)—Aerial searchers reported today that wreckage and bodies were sighted 11,000 feet high on Mt. San Geronimo, apparently sealing the fate of an Air Force C-47 plane missing since Monday night with 13 men aboard.

Maj. James McCall, March Field Air Base pilot, reported to Capt. Howard K. Hoover, search mission commander, that he had sighted the wreckage and indicated that the ship burned in the crash.

135 Students Strike Over Principal Ouster

HILLSBORO, Mo., Dec. 4 (AP)—About 135 high school students stayed away from classes today over the dismissal of their principal, Paul C. Willett.

Willett, a physical education teacher for two years, became principal this year. He was dismissed by the Board of Education last night because of a dispute between Willett and the music teacher, Miss Rosalie Roberts, over the discipline of boys who allegedly had misbehaved in music class.

Willett was continued as a teacher and coach of the basketball team.

The students heard of the dismissal when they appeared for classes this morning. They held a meeting and decided to stay around the school but not attend classes.

Superintendent J. R. Vineyard of Reorganized District R-3 said the board has agreed to meet with the students tomorrow morning.

Airmail Letter Arrives Only 8 1/2-Years Late

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Dec. 4 (AP)—An airmail letter arrived today from Key West, Fla., after a delay of 8 1/2 years.

Postmarked May 17, 1944 at Key West, the letter came to Southwest State College and was addressed to John R. Kerr, College officials found that a man by that name was entered as an Air Corps cadet at the time. The sender was Mrs. J. R. Kerr of Key West. Kerr's present whereabouts are unknown.

There were no indications as to what caused the long delay in delivering the letter.

Bids Opened For Houses At Air Base

Bids on family housing buildings at the Sedalia Air Force Base were opened Thursday by Col. L. J. Lincoln of the Kansas City District U. S. Army Engineer Corps.

The apparent low bidder was the Curtiss Construction Co., Eldon, whose bid was $76,594. The government estimate on the three buildings was $73,878.48.

The bid will be reviewed by the Review Board at Omaha, Neb., after which awarding of the contract will be announced.

The project calls for one, one-story wood frame single family dwelling, no basement, and two other buildings of wood frame structure for two family dwellings, each with no basement. It also calls for all sanitary construction for the dwellings, complete with sidewalks and landscaping after construction.

Work will start within ten days after the contractor has received notification of being awarded the contract. The contractor has 200 calendar days, excluding Sundays and holidays, to complete the work.

There were four other bids received and opened on the project: The Sievers Construction Co., Sedalia, whose bid was $99,897; Martin K. Elby Co., Wichita, Kas., with a $84,500 bid; John E. Parkinson Construction Co., of Camden, high bidder with $157,270; and the Baumann Construction Co., Nevada, bid $82,637.

The housing, it was understood, is for the commanding officer of the Air Base and other high ranking officers who are to be stationed at the base.

The recent project, on which the W. J. Menefee Construction Co., of Sedalia was low bidder, contract award is expected to be completed this week and the Sedalia firm to be notified.

It is for the construction of roads, railroads and parking areas at the base.

South Korea Will Not Accept India's Compromise On Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—South Korea turned down today an Indian compromise proposal for ending the Korean War as the president of the U. N. Assembly wrote an appeal to the Communists to accept it.

Y. T. Pyun, foreign minister of the U. N.-sponsored Republic of Korea, announced here that his government could not accept the Indian resolution, approved yesterday by 54 of the 60 U. N. members, because "it is against the spirit of the Constitution of the Republic of Korea."

Western delegates said privately they would not worry about South Korea's stand if the Communists did the unexpected and agreed to the proposal.

Main Point Objectable

Pyun objected to the heart of the plan, which is a provision for sending thousands of North Korean war prisoners to a demilitarized zone from which they would be repatriated by a U. N. commission. Pyun said his government regarded the prisoners as liberated Koreans. Those who desired to remain in the South should be liberated now, he added. The others are Communists, he said, but they still are Koreans and are not alien prisoners of war. He said it would reflect on Korea's sovereignty to send them to the demilitarized zone, even temporarily.

Lester B. Pearson, president of the Assembly, told a news conference he was writing a letter to go along with the Assembly's resolution. This letter would explain the background of the resolution and would end with an appeal to Peiping and Pyongyang to accept it.

Pearson indicated he would prefer to have an envoy from some government stationed in Peiping to deliver the resolution and the letter. He said he thought this method would be better than sending a cable to Communist China.

The resolution called for creating a repatriation commission made up of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Sweden and Switzerland to take charge of the prisoners. It provided specifically that no force should be used to repatriate or detain them. If the prisoners were not disposed of in 120 days, they would be handed over to the U. N. as refugees.

Casualties were held to two killed and seven injured because most of the workers were in the administration building. They were giving a reception to Gen. Alfonso Cordona del Rosal who had taken office as the new Chief of the Bureau of Military Industries only seven minutes before.

Crossroads Comment

By G. H. S.

Human civilization has had about 1,000,000 years to improve itself, yet we're still quarreling about the methods of taking care of the sick and injured.

Table etiquette often is very revealing, for instance, the manner in which a person dishes it out, and how he is able to take it.

There's a little good in almost everything. Bias is considered repugnant until you cut the end of a thread that way the easier to insert it in the eye of a needle.

According to surveys, men are more apt to talk in their sleep, but women are more given to dreaming. No wonder, the women exhaust their talking in the daytime!

WSB Chief Quits Over Truman's OK Of Mine Pay Boost

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—President Truman tonight accepted the resignation of Archibald Cox as chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) and named Charles Killingsworth to replace him.

Cox quit in protest against Truman's decision to overrule the board in the soft coal wage increase case. Truman ordered approval of the full $1.90 a day increase negotiated by John L. Lewis for his United Mine Workers. The board had voted against any increase beyond $1.50 a day, on the ground it would be inflationary.

Killingsworth, the new board chairman, is a 35-year-old economics professor from Michigan State College. He had been vice chairman.

Despite the speedy shift in chairmen, the wage board was unable to function because of a boycott by its six industry members, who had sided with Cox and the five other public members in the mine wage dispute.

The industry members called a meeting for tomorrow at which they may decide whether to follow Cox's lead and resign. Some of them at least were believed certain to pull out. One told a reporter the President's action made a "mockery" of the board's work.

The increase granted by the President was for diggers of soft coal.

Hard Coal Miners Also Gain

Late today the government approved a daily wage boost of about $1.90 for hard coal miners.

Economic Stabilizer Roger Putnam wrote a letter to the WSB saying Truman's soft coal decision "of course would extend to any other similar contract involving coal mining." Thus he directed the board to stamp approval on the raise negotiated by the hard coal men.

It was uncertain just when the board would be able to comply with Putnam's order, because of its disorganized state.

Putnam gave official approval late today to the soft coal contract between Lewis and Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

Moses bargains for 240 million tons of annual soft coal production, slightly less than half the nation's production. He was the only industry official who appealed the original WSB outback decision to Putnam.

In his statement tonight, Putnam said all other soft coal contracts signed by Lewis and the industry must still be officially approved by the WSB before the $1.90 can legally be paid. Putnam sent a letter, addressed only to "the Wage Stabilization Board," directing it to approve all these other contracts.

Board Can't Act Now

This cannot be done, a board spokesman said, until the WSB starts functioning again. Industry lawyers, questioned on this point, said that if the WSB remains unable to function for some time, Putnam himself could notify the soft coal producers that all their contracts have been approved.

The six labor members of the board, although outwardly pleased that Lewis' miners are going to get the full increase, were unhappy that the WSB was overruled. They themselves had voted for the full $1.90, but the public-industry majority cut the raise back to $1.50.

Trygve Lie Set To Fire 18 Who Balked On Red Inquiry

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—Eighteen American U. N. employees who refused to answer U. S. federal inquiries on subversion have been fired or will be dismissed tomorrow by Secretary-General Trygve Lie, U. N. sources said tonight.

Nine of them already have been fired for balking at questions of the U. S. Senate internal security subcommittee headed by Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) or queries of New York federal grand juries.

The other nine refused today to give what Lie regarded as satisfactory answers at his own follow-up inquiry and are to be let out tomorrow, the sources said, when Lie makes a public report.

Six of those already bounced were ousted by the U. N. after the McCarran Committee began public anti-Red dragnet hearings in New York in October. The other three of these were fired earlier in the year.

The nine expected to be fired tomorrow have been on special leave with pay by order of Lie since their McCarran Committee appearances.

Of those already fired, Lie had announced six dismissals earlier from time to time. Three were new. It was the first disclosure of this total of nine fired.

A U. N. spokesman recalled tonight that Lie said when previously announcing some firings that he had acted not only because of refusal to testify but on further evidence supplied to him by U. S. security agencies.

Since then Lie has had the advice this week of a three-man panel of international lawyers on how to deal with Americans under fire who work for him.

The jurists recommended that Lie fire any employee who refused to answer questions about alleged links with the Communist party or anti-American espionage because such refusal created a "climate of suspicion."

Lie had given the nine pending until noon today to tell him the answers to the questions they had dodged. Their replies to Lie were reported unsatisfactory.

A U. N. source said Lie would have a statement on the issue tomorrow morning.

3 Dead Mar Opening Day Of Deer Hunt

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 4 (AP)—Three hunters fatally struck a grisly note on the first day of Missouri's 1952 deer hunting season today.

One was the victim of a "sound" shot, a conservation agent said. Another, agents reported, was a 16-year-old youth who died from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Conservation agents said Harold H. Norman, 53, lumber yard manager of Parma, Mo., was killed by a bullet that struck him under the left armpit near Ellisville, in Carter County.

The agents said W. L. Ramsey, Parma electrical appliance dealer, told them he mistook Norman for a deer.

Red Bailey, head of the commission's protection division, said Arthur Haynes of Olean, Mo., died of a bullet wound through the heart. Bailey said a man identified as Doyle Scott of Fulton, Mo., acknowledged firing the shot that apparently killed Haynes. Bailey quoted Scott as saying he heard a noise in the brush and fired at the sound.

Accident In Gasconade County

Haynes and W. W. Boynter of Linn, Mo., were hunting Brown Shanty road in Gasconade County about 3 p. m. when the accident occurred.

Agents said Haynes wore no red clothing.

Jack Bennett, 16, of Taneyville, Mo., was shot through the abdomen agents said, while hunting in Skaggs Hospital in Branson where he died about three hours later.

During the 1951 deer hunting season one aged hunter died of exposure in a heavy snowstorm. His body was not recovered until last summer.

Conservation agents weighed in 1,705 legal deer on the "first day of the 3-day season, slightly more than the first day kill a year ago. The total kill in 1951 was 5,500 legal deer.

Invalid Gets Buck

Conway, a young man from Pacific, Mo., confined by paralysis to a wheel chair, went hunting in the Indian Creek area. He got shots at three different animals, finally downing a handsome buck.

A century-old muzzle-loading rifle proved deadly against deer for C. O. Buchanan of Wellsville, Mo. With his .43 caliber rifle he bagged his buck in Gasconade County.

Taney County, the best deer-hunting area a year ago, appeared to be a leader once more. The number of deer checked in there today was 282. Another county, St. Genevieve also had a large kill of 183.

'Preacher' Roe Scores

It was in Taney County, too, that Elwin "Preacher" Roe, Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, bagged a doe less than an hour after the season opened at 6:30 a. m. Roe said he got the deer, on his first hunt, with two shots.

Another baseball figure, Mike Ryba, St. Louis Cardinals coach, wound up this year as a sort of umpire—a new role for him. He has taken a job as deputy conservation agent in Taney County for the duration of the deer season.

Conservation Commission experts believe between 7,500 and 10,000 deer will be killed in the Missouri deer season this year.

Local Woman Bags Nine-Point Buck Near Knob Noster

The first Sedalian to report deer hunting success was Mrs. Wanda Van Hoff, wife of Francis Van Hoff, 908 1/2 South Vermont, who made her kill in the back part of Montserrat Park near Knob Noster, about 1:30 Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Van Hoff used one slug from a 12-gauge shotgun to make her kill. It was a nine-point buck and weighed 160 pounds according to the weight taken at the Montserrat Park gate, where the Conservation Commission is checking all kills made in that area.

Mrs. Van Hoff was accompanied by her brother Lloyd Allee, 2010 South Missouri; Earl Hoseney, Kansas City; Bob and Jack Knight of Hughesville, Mo.

After her kill the others continued hunting the remainder of the afternoon without success. They reported they will return Friday and Saturday.

It was reported that 36 deer had been killed in the Montserrat area in the opening day of the three-day hunting season.

Cinema Art Series Here This Winter

The Cinema Art Series, a group of ten films of unusual merit, will be shown in Sedalia this winter. Acclaimed by critics and discriminating audiences, they are pictures which, because of their appeal, would not ordinarily be shown in a community the size of Sedalia.

Various club-women have discussed the possibility of occasional special showings of films aside from those adapted for ordinary commercial use and the need for some afternoon winter matinees is recognized. Joe Ruckdick, manager of the Fox Theatre, felt the "Cinema Art Series" would be the answer.

The 1952-53 series will be shown every other Tuesday afternoon, starting Tuesday, Dec. 2, and continuing through April 7. The showings will start at 2 p. m. and the matinee performance will be the only showing in Sedalia.

A relatively large group of club women, representing some ten organizations, met recently with Mr. Ruckdick and selected a panel from which final booking selections were made. Variety is the keynote of the presentations which will include classical, music, history, comedy and drama.

The matinees are open to the public. The season tickets, good for ten programs, are available now and may be purchased for $3.25, which includes all taxes. Single admissions will be 75 cents each. By purchasing a season ticket in advance there will be a bonus of three shows, or a cash savings of $2.25, a 30 per cent discount. Holders of season tickets will not have to wait in line at the box office, nor any further cash transaction.

The pictures to be presented are as follows: Dec. 2, Dickens' "A Christmas Carol"; Dec. 16, "The First Opera Film Festival" - excerpts from "Carmen," "Marriage of Figaro," "William Tell," "Don Pasquale"; Dec. 30, "Kind Hearts and Coronets"; Jan. 13, "Encore," W. Somerset Maugham's "The Ant and the Grasshopper" - "Winter Cruise" - "Gigolo and Gigolette"; Jan. 27, "Spring in Park Lane" romantic comedy musical based on a story by Alice Duer Miller; Feb. 10, "Outcast of the Islands"; by Joseph Conrad, produced and directed by Carol Reed; Feb. 24, "The Life and Music of Tchaikovsky"; March 10, "Mr. Peek-A-Boo," continental whimsy; March 24, Robert Donat in Terence Tattigan's play, "The Winslow Boy"; and April 4, "The Lavender Hill Mob" starring Alec Guinness.

Syracuse Baptist Church Scene Of Robertson-DeJarnette Nuptials

The glow of candlelight, from the burning white tapers in tall candelabra on either side of the altar setting, touched softly the white gladioli and yellow poms with the arrangements of jade foliage which formed the background for the marriage of Miss Doris Ann Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Robertson Sr., Ottumwa, and Mr. Charles Lewis DeJarnette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeJarnette Jr., Syracuse, at 8 o'clock Monday evening, November 17.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wayne Masters in the Syracuse Baptist Church, of which he is the pastor.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Albert Ellis, organist, played a prelude of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Hadley Stahl, who sang "Because," "I Love You Truly," and the "Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Richard Robertson and Miss Ethel Baker, wearing identical gowns of yellow and orchid taffeta, lighted the candles. They carried white candles tied with a ribbon matching their gowns, and their corsages were of yellow and tulleman roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white bridal satin designed with fitted bodice and long fluted sleeves that tapered to points over the wrists. The illusion yoke was edged with a bertha of white satin. The deep points of the bodice extended down into the net of the full skirt. Two panels accented the front of the bride's gown. Her fingertip veil of double illusion cascaded from a white satin headband trimmed with seed pearls and crystal beads. The bride wore a single strand of pearls which was a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of red roses tied with a white satin ribbon.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Derrell Irwin, sister of the bridegroom, wore a Nile green ballerina length gown of nylon net with matching satin. It was styled with a fitted bodice, forming a deep point identical to that of the bride's, which extended down into the net of the full skirt. Her headband was of matching satin and net trimmed with crystal beads.

The groom was attended by Mr. Richard Robertson, Syracuse, Usher were Mr. Paul Edwin Stahl, Mr. Allen Stahl and Mr. William Wray Anthony, all of Syracuse.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Robertson selected a suit of navy blue with matching accessories and her corsage was of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of tulleman roses.

A reception was held in the church dining room immediately following the ceremony. The three tiered wedding cake, decorated with rose buds topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and encircled with greenery and roses centered the bride's table. On either side were burning white tapers in silver candelabra. The table was covered with a lace tablecloth.

Stories of Films in Cinema Art Series All Available

Probably more than any other author, Charles Dickens is associated with the Christmas season, and every year his famous book, "A Christmas Carol," is not only read to new generations, but dramatized anew on stage, television and radio.

As Stephen Leacock says in his biography of Dickens, "A Christmas Carol" is one of the masterpieces of English literature, and has quite literally gone around the world. Persons planning to attend the Cinema Art Series, sponsored by the club women of Sedalia in cooperation with the Fox Theatre, will enjoy re-reading this classic which is to be the first film in the series. Besides Leacock's biography of Dickens, and other works about him, all Dickens' writing is to be found at the Sedalia public library.

Speech Department, Assisted By Musicians, Give Program

By Ruth Maurine Hoffman

The Smith-Cotton speech department, assisted by the school music department, presented a Thanksgiving program Wednesday afternoon before a school assembly.

The program was opened with the customary assembly exercises. The students stood at attention as the "Star-Spangled Banner" was played over the public-address system. Mary Jo Case, song-leader, and Tricia Robinson, school accompanist, led the students in singing "Hail Alma Mater." The Students' Creed was recited in unison by the audience.

Charles Walch, vice-president of the Senior Student Council, then introduced Don Barnes, president of Smith-Cotton Chapter, National Forensic League, who acted as master-of-ceremonies for the program. He presented Don Alexander who gave a humorous declamation, "The Blue-Eyed Sheikh." Presiding and following the declamation, a small string orchestra, under the direction of Miss Jerry Teufel, played a selection.

Don Barnes then told the story of the first Thanksgiving celebration by the Pilgrims. Barbara Schumacher read the proclamation of George Washington concerning Thanksgiving. Don continued the outline of Thanksgiving history by describing the efforts of Sarah Hale, editor of Godey's Ladies' Book. In 1863, Mrs. Hale realized a life-long ambition when President Abraham Lincoln decreed the day a national holiday.

William Hammond recited those blessings for which we all are thankful. Valene Hayworth then played Handel's "Largo" on the piano. Larry Lingle read the Thanksgiving proclamation of President Harry Truman.

To conclude the program, the Smith-Cotton mixed chorus wearing robes of black banded with gold sang "America the Beautiful." The chorus was directed by Miss Jerry Teufel.

See UN Changes By Ike

Expected to Make Sweeping Shifts In US Delegation To World Group

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is expected by sources here to make quick and sweeping changes in the U. S. delegation to the U. N. soon after he takes office Jan. 20.

American sources familiar with the law said that Eisenhower, after he is inaugurated, will have the authority to remove all the American delegates to the seventh General Assembly if they do not tender resignations.

All of them would have completed their terms had the assembly held to its original schedule, which called for adjournment to be taken on most items of business, the assembly's steering committee was expected to order a Christmas recess and resumption of the session in February, after the inauguration.

President Truman appointed the present U. S. delegation of five chief representatives and five alternates after Congress adjourned last summer. A search of U. S. law shows that legally to the end of the seventh General Assembly. There are precedents, both in law and in custom, however, for the President to accept resignations or remove the delegates if he feels he must make a change.

It was reported in diplomatic circles here that Eisenhower, bolstered by his on-the-spot inspection of the Korean situation, might shake up the delegation with the idea of carrying out his plans as quickly as possible.

The feeling here is that the new secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, will make recommendations along that line to Eisenhower and that Dulles himself may head the assembly delegation.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., (R-Mass) will become head of the permanent U. S. mission to the U. N. under the new administration. He will succeed Warren R. Austin, who has been the permanent delegate since January, 1947, and whose resignation has been accepted.

The main question in the minds of some key delegates is whether Eisenhower intends to continue President Truman's custom of appointing two delegates from Congress.

This year the congressional delegates were senators Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) and Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.). They were named the carry on the bi-partisan policy initiated at the start of the U. N. for the delegation.

Wiley in the new congress is slated to be named chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Some delegates here feel the new president would demonstrate the support he expresses for the U. N. if he sent back as a delegate the new head of the powerful Senate committee which deals with U. S. decisions.

Wiley has served on the U. N. Financial Committee and has fought unsuccessfully for a reduction in the assessment levied against the U. S. He also is keenly interested in ferreting out any subversive Americans on the U. N. payroll.

Green has served on the assembly's legal committee and has made a few speeches on legal problems.

The ex-officio chief delegate, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, attended what may have been his last meeting as a U. N. delegate Tuesday when the Political Committee concluded action on the Korean item. Acheson went back to Washington to confer with Dulles and prepare for meetings of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Paris later this month. He will retire from office when President Truman leaves and has indicated he will retire to private life.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a delegate to every General Assembly, has said she does not expect reappointment.

British Cut Spending On Defense Projects

LONDON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today announced a new cutback in the British defense effort to minimize the entanglement of the nation's economy in an inflationary spiral.

He did not specify the size of the cut in his statement to a packed and attentive House of Commons. But he made it clear the action was designed to protect Britain's financial solvency.

"Some curtailment must now be made," Churchill said. "This will, to some extent, involve the cancellation or modification of contracts already placed."

The reductions will, so far as possible, be brought about by spreading deliveries of equipment over a longer period. It will, however, not be possible to solve the problem entirely by spreading deliveries into future months or years.

Federal Jury Sees Files On Lattimore

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal grand jury gets a look today at the voluminous congressional files on Owen Lattimore. The jury will study the files and possibly question witnesses in an effort to determine whether it wants to indict the Far Eastern expert on a charge of perjury.

Lattimore has been before congressional committees off and on for a long time—ever since Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) accused him of being the chief Soviet spy in the United States.

This was vigorously denied by Lattimore, Johns Hopkins University professor, one-time adviser to the State Department on foreign affairs, and former consultant to the controversial Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR).

The suggestion of a perjury indictment came up earlier this year after Lattimore was questioned for 12 days by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, which was headed by the chairmanship of Sen. McCarran (D-Nevl).

Those hearings were stormy ones indeed, marked by repeated clashes between McCarran and Lattimore. At one point, Lattimore called McCarthy "a graduate witch burner." He steadfastly denied having any connection with the Communists.

Man Found Dead, Suitcase Contains $200,000 In Cash

NEW YORK (AP)—A 64-year-old man, found dead last night in a Queens rooming house, left a suitcase stuffed with more than $200,000 in cash—including a $100,000 bill. The man, identified by his landlady and attorney as Roger Stewart, apparently died of natural causes. He was termed a virtual recluse whom his neighbors thought was practically penniless.

The money, cached in a gladstone bag, included $17 $1,000 bills. Also found in the room were stocks and jewelry the value of which was not immediately determined. Stewart was found dead in a chair in his $25-a-month, second-floor room. He was wearing an old suit and hat, and police said no other clothing was found in the room.

The landlady, Mrs. Alice Flannery, said Stewart received no mail, had no visitors and seldom left the house during his three-year residence.

8 Commonwealths Back British Foreign Policy

LONDON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Eight sister Commonwealth nations gave general backing to Britain's foreign policy today.

Six visiting prime ministers and the finance ministers of India and South Africa sat down with Winston Churchill's Cabinet at No. 10 Downing St. and heard Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden outline British policy on major issues now threatening world peace.

Just what subjects Eden touched on were not disclosed, but his review must have described Britain's stand on the Korean peace parleys and the Cold War.

And he almost certainly gave the Commonwealth visitors, here for economic discussions, a rundown on the way British-American relations are developing. The secretary met with President-elect Eisenhower and the incoming secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, in New York last month.

Record Absentee Vote In State At Nov. 4 Election

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Voting by absentee ballot was at a record level with Missourians in the Nov. 4 general election.

Paul Markway, chief clerk in the secretary of state's office, estimated today that between 65,000 and 70,000 voters cast absentee ballots. And he had facts to back up his estimate.

Two counties, Jackson (including Kansas City) and Audrain, sent the secretary of state their vote canvasses without separating the home from the absentee ballots. Even without these, Markway said, more than 63,000 Missourians voted absentee in the record surge of 1,892,000 o the polls.

He figured Jackson County alone probably had at least 5,000 absentee voters.

Markway said a combination of things produced the big increase from the slightly more than 190 absentee votes cast in 1948. He named the relaxing of laws on absentee voting, the campaign to get out the vote this year and the heightened interest in the presidential campaign among others.

Pre-election estimates of absentee balloting had generally run between 40,000 and 50,000 voters.

Wife Falls, Dies In Haste To See Man's 'Visitor'

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—Harry and Elizabeth Ainscow, both 77, had been happily married more than 50 years.

There were the usual quarrels, of course, for Mrs. Ainscow was a bit jealous, as all women are. The other night the wife had just retired to her bedroom upstairs and Ainscow was waiting to hear the end of a symphony concert on the radio.

"Who has come in? I can hear a woman's voice," the wife called from upstairs.

The husband, who had risen from his easy chair to go to bed, called back, "No one, dear."

A few moments later he heard a thud. After bottom of the stairs was his wife, dead.

At a corner's inquest, the husband said she must have been hurrying down to see if there was another woman when she stumbled and fell.

"Why she should be so suspicious about such a very old man I cannot understand," said the coroner in giving a verdict of accidental death.

"So great was her haste to investigate this strange woman's voice that she did not trouble even to put on her slippers."

The female voice was that of a woman radio announcer.

Chinese Give-Up Drive On Sniper

SEOUL, Friday, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Chinese Communists broke off their attacks on Sniper Ridge on Thursday after 24 hours of close-in battle in the coldest weather of the year.

South Korean defenders stood firm in bitter cold of two below zero as the Reds threw in small but savage and persistent attacks in the blackness before sunrise.

The Communists had occupied positions on Pinpoint Hill, dominating height on Sniper Ridge—in bitter hand-to-hand combat Wednesday. But counter-attacks off South Koreans drove the Reds off Wednesday night.

The Communists then struck back with a thrust which was blunted shortly after midnight in a four and a half hour fight. The final Red assault, by about 40 men, came at 5:55 a.m. and was halted.

The Eighth Army tactical summary listed only small probes and patrol action across the remainder of the 155-mile front.

Matmen Give A Good Show Opening Night

Wrestling opened to a bang Thursday night, and the local wrestling fans seemed well-pleased with the matchmaking of promoter Ivan Peters, former Sedalia, who has taken over the mat sport for the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion. The three matches were good, but the opener and the main event were real thrillers for the ringersiders.

Jack Bernard, "Loverboy the Great" Louisville, Ky., took a beating in the feature event after winning the opening fall, in one minute and 19 seconds, from Frank Altman, Kansas City. Bernard made a whirlwind finish of the fall, only to come back in the second period to lose when Altman succeeded in getting a body press and the huge man, it took 16 minutes and three seconds for the fall. In the final period Bernard and Altman had one of the roughest contests seen in the local ring in months. Had Bernard held his head instead of losing all sense of sportsmanship he may have won the fall, but instead he cut Altman's forehead.

The St. Louis executive, in a speech prepared for delivery before the closing session of the Trans-Missouri - Kansas Shippers Board meeting here, predicted that rail traffic volume for 1953 will continue at present high levels, but warned that the industry must be allowed to compete on an equal basis with other forms of transportation.

Atkinson said "during the years since 1940 the railroads transported greater tonnage x x still the rate of return on net investment throughout that decade of peak transportation averaged only 4 1/2 per cent."

"Public Utilities," he said, "customarily receive twice that much while the average of manufacturers is four times that of the railroads."

Atkinson said the railroads' record of improved performance without a proportionate increase in earnings "conclusively proves the existence of basic faults in the regulatory law and its administration."

These faults, he said, can be cured only by congressional action supported by an understanding public.

The shippers board also forecast that business will remain at present high levels in the five-state area of Missouri, Kansas and parts of Arkansas, Illinois and Oklahoma.

Their forecast for the first quarter of 1953 anticipates shipment of 345,000 carloads of 31 basic commodities from the board's area as compared to 345,114 carloads of these commodities shipped during the corresponding period this year.

Both increases and decreases are expected within these groups with an increase of 9,078 carloads of automobiles, up 21.3 per cent over a year ago, heading the list.

Dewey Sees No Split In Republican Ranks

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said tonight he doesn't think Sen. Robert A. Taft's attack on the new Secretary of Labor signals an end of Republican harmony.

Taft recently called the selection of Martin P. Durkin of the AFL as President-elect Eisenhower's labor secretary "incredible."

Flying back from a Florida vacation, Dewey told newsmen: "I think we'll have a fine harmonious administration. I don't know Mr. Durkin and I've never met him, but I have the highest regard for Gen. Eisenhower's selections and his great ability for picking good people."

The detectives here don't give up. This week the watch turned up in a pawnshop here. It had been pawned Monday. Mrs. Gilbert has moved to Omaha in the meantime.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press News Analyst

Recent differences between Great Britain and the United States on numerous points give rise to the idea that more joint preliminary work needs to be done before either nation makes major policy announcements.

A Joint Chief of Staff for political and economic matters seems to be needed almost as much as it was for military matters during the war.

Broad British and American policies proceed from similar cultures and the essential needs of alliance. Within the broad picture there are, too, essential differences which have to be compromised for the sake of the whole.

There are differing viewpoints on colonialism and the best way to make the adjustments in this field demanded by changing times.

There are differences in political attitudes toward areas such as China where trade is vastly important to the British and much less important to the U. S., just as there are differences where the two economies meet head-on in world markets.

There are traditional differences in approach to such things as the Russian problem, with Britain inclined to wiggle and squirm and negotiate where the U. S. inclines to be more direct.

Right now, for instance, the Commonwealth conference in London is reported to be against any extension of the Korean War to Red China itself, and Britain feels unable to provide larger forces for the fight in Korea. Yet both of these are now considered in the U. S. as strong alternatives to a continued stalemate after the latest U. N. truce offer has been formally turned down by the Reds.

Unable to settle her dispute with Egypt, Britain has been maneuvering for an Allied Defense Command in the Middle East without the Arab countries. The U. S. isn't exactly against it but considers it hardly feasible.

Britain is mad about not being included in ANZUS, the Australia-New Zealand-U. S. defense pact in the Pacific, from which she was barred primarily because it already had too much of an all-white aspect for the good of Oriental relations.

The greatest problem before Britain and the Commonwealth is economic. The London conference has been held to decide what position Britain should take with regard to trade negotiations in Europe and the United States.

This sort of thing tends to put Britain in one compartment and the United States in another. It brings about bargaining situations, such as appears certain to be produced now if, as seems likely, the present economic moves lead to a world economic conference.

Both nations now take steps at times which lead to public disputes rather than calm conferring. Some of this is inevitable. Some of it could be eliminated if there were more conferring before public stands are taken.

Mrs. T's Mother Is Dead

End for Mrs. Wallace Comes Today at 90
At White House; Ill for Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. David Willock Wallace, mother-in-law of President Truman, died at the White House today. Death was due to the infirmities of old age. She was 90 years old.

The President's mother-in-law died at 12:35 p. m. The specific cause of death was given as cerebral thrombosis. She had been ill for several months.

Death came only six weeks before President Truman was to leave the White House. He and his family are going home to Independence, Mo., on Jan. 20 when Dwight Eisenhower becomes President of the United States.

Bess Was With Her
Bess Truman was with her mother when she died. The President, an aide said, "got there just at the end."

Also with Mrs. Wallace were a nurse, a maid and Maj. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the White House physician.

A White House official said President and Mrs. Truman will leave here by train at 6:30 p. m., tomorrow, to return to Independence, Mo., for the funeral.

The funeral probably will take place Monday. It will be strictly private. He emphasized that the Trumans requested that no flowers be sent.

All the President's engagements for the next several days were cancelled.

Mrs. Truman is the eldest of Mrs. Wallace's four children. Her three sons are living.

Her son, Madge Gates was born Aug. 4, 1862, at Port Byron, Ill. She was the daughter of George Porterfield Gates and Elizabeth Emery Gates. Her mother had been born in Rounds, England.

In her prime Mrs. Wallace was a regal woman of the Victorian dowager-type. She wore black velvet bands around her neck and prided herself on her erect carriage.

Didn't Care for Politics
She truly believed a woman's place is in the home but she had many outside charitable interests. She didn't care much for politics although her husband was at one time county treasurer.

She liked to keep busy about her home. She had no time for idle back fence gossip. She was an excellent housekeeper and brought Mrs. Truman up to be able to cook a meal with ease. And she saw to it that Margaret had the same training.

Musical herself, she encouraged Margaret's aspirations to be a singer. When Margaret sang on her first concert tour at Constitution Hall, Mrs. Wallace went. It was one of her few public appearances in recent years. That night she sat in the presidential box, proudly wearing three white gardenia corsages—one from her son-in-law, one from her daughter and the other from Margaret.

Mrs. Wallace was never part of the brilliant White House scene. She disliked personal publicity and in recent years she stayed quietly by herself. But she kept up with what was going on and she had definite opinions.

Often Mrs. Truman, Margaret and the President himself would stop by her room before going out so she could see how they looked.

Rites Not Planned
Funeral arrangements are still to be made. It was expected, however, that the body would be taken to Independence for burial.

Mrs. Wallace's family settled in Independence when she was four years old. They migrated there from Vermont and Illinois.

Mrs. Wallace's father was associated with the Waggoner Milling Co., which still is in business in Independence.

In 1865 he built the family home with the wide lawn at 219 North Delaware St., familiar to many Americans as the background for President Truman's homecoming pictures.

It was in this home that Mrs. Wallace was reared. As a young woman she attended the Ladies' Female College, a popular boarding school for girls of that day.

She was married to David W. Wallace, member of a prominent Independence banking family, June 13, 1883. The couple began house-keeping a short distance from the Gates home. She was left a widow July 4, 1903, and she and her children, three sons and a daughter, moved into the Gates home.

When the daughter, Elizabeth Wallace, married Harry S. Truman, Mrs. Wallace's three sons already had established homes of their own. One of the conditions of the marriage was that the couple live with Mrs. Wallace.

She was a member of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Independence. Besides Mrs. Truman, Mrs. Wallace is survived by the three sons, David Wallace, Albuquerque, N. M.; and Frank and George Wallace of Independence.

Hundreds Witness Christmas Parade

Santa Claus Arrives, Queen Crowned, Wentworth Band Gives Close Drill—And Crowd Gets Thrill of Yule Season

There was a lot of confusion—a lot of wondering just where their float or band belonged in the parade—the stepping around of horses with their cowboy riders—as everybody got in place for the Christmas parade which started this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Along the line of the parade there were hundreds of people in lines four or five deep, bright-eyed youngsters looking for Santa—everybody having a wonderful time.

Old Santa was there in his bright red suit—not looking a day older than he did last year or many years ago. He looked old to begin with, but his laugh and his spirit are still young.

There was Mrs. Santa Claus, in her bright red suit, riding in a bright red convertible. In the cage back of her were stuffed animals, inside of which were children. This was what Mrs. Santa brought with her from toy land and the Beta Tau Chapter took her riding around in the parade.

There was the living Christmas tree made of children dressed in white and covered with bright ornaments, but none as bright as their own little faces. This was the inspiration of High Point School.

One of the floats that was not in competition was that of the special education for handicapped children and in the truck, covered with green, were some of the children taught by Mrs. George West. There was a mantle on which was a large plant of the Joseph's coat, the Bible story, and beside the fireplace was a Christmas tree. The children even did the lettering. On the mantle was the word "Peace" the children had selected.

Flat Creek had a truck load of carolers who were singing as they went.

Quisenberry had a real little log cabin with a skin in front and "ma" and "pa" looking out horribly to see their small son dragging home a Christmas tree much too big for the house. There was smoke coming out of the chimney of the cabin.

Walnut Grove had a little house representing Buena Vista with the people inside looking out and children taking a sled with a large basket filled with gifts—and after the parade was over the gifts were taken to Buena Vista.

Smith-Cotton had Santa's Workshop with big blocks, a jack in the box with a real little boy, a girl dressed like a doll, a Christmas tree being decorated by Santa's smallest helpers.

Georgetown had the little house and the three bears.

Washington school had the "Night Before Christmas" scene with Santa going down the chimney and the fireplace ready for its toys.

Whittier had the littlest angel, the book, and the angel made of paper mache.

The winter wonderland of Mark Twain was a winter scene with two large paper mache figures, a girl and a boy skating.

There are beautiful nativity scenes by Sacred Heart, Epworth Methodist Church, South Abel Club and there were many other lovely floats, but we just didn't have time to see them all before the parade really started. There were those of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the Missouri Pacific Booster Club, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club and Miss-Pacific Women's Club.

There were six bands, too, in all colors of uniforms, Wentworth, Tipton, Green Ridge, Hubbard, Smith-Cotton and Ottaville.

This big parade was sponsored by the Jaycees with Donald F. Richardson and Jim Durley co-chairmen, but there was a number of the Jaycees helping to get it all lined up.

The parade was led by the national band, followed by Mayor Herb Studer and dignitaries, then Santa Claus and the lovely queen, Miss Merry Christmas and her attendants. Then came the floats interspersed with bands and the Sadie Club to give to the people of Sedalia and surrounding territory a really fine Christmas parade.

Two of the board members, Reinemer and George Huskey, appeared at a meeting of the student assembly today. Three other board members would not meet with the students and the sixth was absent, Vineyard reported.

Four witnesses testified for the defense. Billy Emerson, a sophomore selected as spokesman by the students, met today with the five board members and presented their demands for reinstatement of Willett and Hill, who resigned yesterday, the superintendent said.

Two Sedalians Kill Deer On Opening Day

Mrs. Wanda VanHoff And Garland Burton Are First to Report

Two Sedalians have reported deer kills, one by Mrs. Wanda VanHoff, wife of Francis VanHoff, 908 1/2 South Vermont, the other by Garland Burton, 1804 South Beacon, during the opening day of deer season, Thursday.

Mrs. VanHoff made her kill in back of Montserrat Park, near Knob Noster, and Burton his in Camden County.

Later it was reported Lloyd Bowers, 407 East 13th, killed an 8-point buck near Gravois Mills Thursday afternoon.

Burton bagged a five-point buck about 1 p. m. It weighed about 150 pounds and he used an 8 mm German Mauser to make the kill.

Mrs. VanHoff shot her nine-point buck about 1:30 p. m. The buck weighed 160 pounds, according to the weight taken at the Montserrat Park gate, where the Conservation Commission is checking all kills made in that area. She used a 12-gauge shotgun.

Burton had been hunting with an uncle, Vernon Tucker, who resides in the vicinity, but had to leave to go to his farm for a trip to town. Mr. Burton decided to stay in the woods and was rewarded with his deer. His uncle announced he would get his today or Saturday.

Mrs. VanHoff was accompanied by her brother, Lloyd Allee, 2010 South Missouri, Earl Hoxey of Kansas City, Bob and Jack Knight of Hughesville.

After she had made her kill the others remained in the field but were unable to kill another. The group reported they would continue hunting today and Saturday in hopes of matching Mrs. VanHoff.

It was reported 36 deer were taken in the Montserrat area on the opening day.

Students Strike After Teacher Gets Release

HILLSBORO, Mo. (AP)—Nearly all of the 135 students at the Hillsboro high school remained away from their classes today after the board of education rejected their demand for reinstatement of Paul C. Willett as principal of the school.

J. R. Vineyard, school superintendent, said teachers were in their classrooms but that most of the students were attending a meeting in the assembly room and few, if any, appeared for classes.

The board voted 3 to 2 today to reject the students' demands for reinstatement of Willett and of Lester Hill, social science teacher, who resigned as a result of a disciplinary problem.

The board voted Wednesday night to accept Willett's resignation as principal but to retain him as athletic coach, a position he has held for two years. The students went on strike yesterday.

W. E. Reinemer, Hillsboro mayor, called a meeting of parents of the school students for Monday.

Two of the board members, Reinemer and George Huskey, appeared at a meeting of the student assembly today. Three other board members would not meet with the students and the sixth was absent, Vineyard reported.

Four witnesses testified for the defense. Billy Emerson, a sophomore selected as spokesman by the students, met today with the five board members and presented their demands for reinstatement of Willett and Hill, who resigned yesterday, the superintendent said.

Lie May Fire 9 US Men

Action May Come Today to Those Refusing Answers Of Red Activity

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. N. sources said Secretary-General Trygve Lie fired nine American employees today for refusing to answer McCarran committee questions about Communist affiliations and subversive connections. This brings to 18 the number dismissed in 1952 for this cause.

Lie, in a formal statement, warned his staff of 3,000 they face the same fate if they act similarly.

Their overcoat collars were turned up as though against the chill. They strode swiftly to the limousine that had pulled up at the curb a few feet from the doorway, ducked into the car, and it drove away. The street was bare and silent once again.

One of the men was U. S. Secret Service Agent Edward Green and the other was President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower. This was the beginning of the Eisenhower mission to Korea where he hoped—as millions of Americans did—that a way could be found to bring an honorable end to the bloody fighting which in two and a half years had claimed 126,000 American dead, wounded and missing.

Other Autos Converge
As the Eisenhower car drove toward Mitchell Field, the Air Force base on Long Island, other automobiles in other parts of the city moved in a precision pattern, also converging on Mitchell Field. There two big Air Force Constellations waited in the darkness.

A few minutes before Eisenhower had left his Morningside Heights residence, Defense Secretary-designate Charles E. Wilson had strolled out of the Waldorf Hotel and entered a cab. He told the driver to drop him off at the southeast corner of 58th St. and Fifth Avenue.

This gray-haired, distinguished industrialist—president of General Motors Corp.—stepped from the designated spot, paid the driver, and then stood on the street corner for a moment.

The sounds of the city were muted at this hour. A few cruising cabs drove by and a few pedestrians walked quickly in the cold streets. A car drew up beside Wilson, the door opened, and he stepped inside. It drove off into the pattern that was forming.

Reporters Join Group
From a half-dozen different points, six reporters and photographers quickly left their lodgings and converged on Pennsylvania Station, which sounds like an improbable place for secrecy in movements.

But the six were lost among the other early travelers waiting for their trains, lounging in doorways and trying to kill time.

A black limousine drove down the ramp by the unloading platform by the car driven by Secret Service Agent Ed Sweeney. The group was joined by Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty.

Sweeney moved out quickly toward the East River, across the big Triborough bridge over the East River and out Long Island to a back road paralleling Mitchell Field. The car stopped at a gate, a light was flashed, someone said the magic word "secret service" and the car was identified the occupants by name.

The gate opened and we followed a car that swung suddenly into the gate to guide us. Then the big Constellation loomed ahead. We stepped out into the sharp, chill wind.

No Coffee for Security
"No sorry we don't have coffee," an Air Force general said, "but security cuts down the number of people we can use at this hour."

There were two Constellations. One for Eisenhower and his party of seven. They included Eisenhower's old friend, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who had flown up from Washington; Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons (ret.) his close friend and White House assistant-to-be; Herbert Brownell of New York, who will be the attorney general in the GOP administration; Wilson; James Rowley, Secret Service agent in charge of the White House detail; and Lt. John Davies, who was to act as Eisenhower's secretary.

The second plane carried the newsmen, Col. Paul T. Carroll of Woonsocket, R. I., temporarily assigned to the party, Hagerty, and Secret Service Agent Richard Flohr.

39 Aboard Planes
In addition both planes carried double crews of 22 men. This was a total of 39 aboard the ships.

The Eisenhower plane took off at 5:55 a. m., just as the blackness was turning to gray. The second plane followed 10 minutes later. At 10:25 a. m., the Eisenhower plane set down at Travis Field near San Francisco to refuel. Minutes later they were off for the long over-seas flight to Hickam Field, Hawaii.

No one left the planes at Travis. The ships paused just long enough to take on the fuel and then they roared westward again.

It was just after midnight when the lights of Honolulu showed on the horizon, sparkling in the dark. (Please turn to Page 4, Column 4)

Miss Elizabeth McLaughlin, their dependents, foreign nationals, shipping officials and people from every walk of life.

Yet this amount must still be augmented by much more from the citizens of the United States, she said. Our men overseas are going all out to send more whole blood to the front, even to the extent of hoisting mobile blood units aboard carriers and other naval vessels so that the crew members can donate. Miss McLaughlin saw this done.

The Sedalia blood quota is still a long way from being filled, only 121 pints being promised out of the necessary 200 for Saturday.

Anyone wishing to give blood may receive immediate service at the bloodmobile in the Army base between 10:45 and 11:45 a. m. Saturday.

While she served in a recreation lounge in Yokohama for a short while, she saw 400 pints of blood donated, every other week at a blood bank set up there. The blood was donated by servicemen, during.

Miss Elizabeth McLaughlin, 1301 West Third, who has just returned from spending more than a year in Korea and Japan is making an urgent appeal for Sedalians to make donations to the blood bank to provide the whole blood which she so often saw being used to save the lives of American soldiers.

Miss McLaughlin said she once talked to a GI who had received 13 pints of blood and too many others who had benefited from the miraculous healing powers of whole blood.

Ike Enroute Home from Korea Where He Sought Way to Peace

Story of Beginning of Ike's Trip Reads Like Modern Mystery Story

Completely Secret, Men Who Made Trip Converged to Plane

WITH EISENHOWER IN KOREA (AP)—It was 5:30 a. m. (EST) on Saturday, Nov. 29, when two men stepped quickly through the doorway of the residence at No. 60 Morningside Heights in New York City into the cold starlight night.

Their overcoat collars were turned up as though against the chill. They strode swiftly to the limousine that had pulled up at the curb a few feet from the doorway, ducked into the car, and it drove away. The street was bare and silent once again.

One of the men was U. S. Secret Service Agent Edward Green and the other was President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower. This was the beginning of the Eisenhower mission to Korea where he hoped—as millions of Americans did—that a way could be found to bring an honorable end to the bloody fighting which in two and a half years had claimed 126,000 American dead, wounded and missing.

Other Autos Converge
As the Eisenhower car drove toward Mitchell Field, the Air Force base on Long Island, other automobiles in other parts of the city moved in a precision pattern, also converging on Mitchell Field. There two big Air Force Constellations waited in the darkness.

A few minutes before Eisenhower had left his Morningside Heights residence, Defense Secretary-designate Charles E. Wilson had strolled out of the Waldorf Hotel and entered a cab. He told the driver to drop him off at the southeast corner of 58th St. and Fifth Avenue.

This gray-haired, distinguished industrialist—president of General Motors Corp.—stepped from the designated spot, paid the driver, and then stood on the street corner for a moment.

The sounds of the city were muted at this hour. A few cruising cabs drove by and a few pedestrians walked quickly in the cold streets. A car drew up beside Wilson, the door opened, and he stepped inside. It drove off into the pattern that was forming.

Reporters Join Group
From a half-dozen different points, six reporters and photographers quickly left their lodgings and converged on Pennsylvania Station, which sounds like an improbable place for secrecy in movements.

But the six were lost among the other early travelers waiting for their trains, lounging in doorways and trying to kill time.

A black limousine drove down the ramp by the unloading platform by the car driven by Secret Service Agent Ed Sweeney. The group was joined by Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty.

Sweeney moved out quickly toward the East River, across the big Triborough bridge over the East River and out Long Island to a back road paralleling Mitchell Field. The car stopped at a gate, a light was flashed, someone said the magic word "secret service" and the car was identified the occupants by name.

The gate opened and we followed a car that swung suddenly into the gate to guide us. Then the big Constellation loomed ahead. We stepped out into the sharp, chill wind.

No Coffee for Security
"No sorry we don't have coffee," an Air Force general said, "but security cuts down the number of people we can use at this hour."

There were two Constellations. One for Eisenhower and his party of seven. They included Eisenhower's old friend, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who had flown up from Washington; Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons (ret.) his close friend and White House assistant-to-be; Herbert Brownell of New York, who will be the attorney general in the GOP administration; Wilson; James Rowley, Secret Service agent in charge of the White House detail; and Lt. John Davies, who was to act as Eisenhower's secretary.

The second plane carried the newsmen, Col. Paul T. Carroll of Woonsocket, R. I., temporarily assigned to the party, Hagerty, and Secret Service Agent Richard Flohr.

39 Aboard Planes
In addition both planes carried double crews of 22 men. This was a total of 39 aboard the ships.

The Eisenhower plane took off at 5:55 a. m., just as the blackness was turning to gray. The second plane followed 10 minutes later. At 10:25 a. m., the Eisenhower plane set down at Travis Field near San Francisco to refuel. Minutes later they were off for the long over-seas flight to Hickam Field, Hawaii.

No one left the planes at Travis. The ships paused just long enough to take on the fuel and then they roared westward again.

It was just after midnight when the lights of Honolulu showed on the horizon, sparkling in the dark. (Please turn to Page 4, Column 4)

Ike Spent 3 Days, 4 Minutes In Korea

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower spent exactly three days and four minutes in Korea.

He left New York before dawn Saturday, e arrived in Seoul at 7:57 p. m. Tuesday (4:57 a. m., CST) and left tonight at 8:01 p. m. (5:01 a. m. CST).

His overcoat collars were turned up as though against the chill. They strode swiftly to the limousine that had pulled up at the curb a few feet from the doorway, ducked into the car, and it drove away. The street was bare and silent once again.

Officer of International Council of Churches— 'Our Home Is the World of Today' Speaker Tells BPW Club Members

"Our home is the world of today," said Mrs. James Wyker of Columbia in her address Thursday night at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club at the Bothwell Hotel. Mrs. Wyker, president of the National Council of Church Women, took for her subject "Our Responsibility As American Women."

Mrs. Wyker, who was a delegate to the first meeting of the World Council of Churches in 1948 and the first vice president of the International Convention of 1952, pointed out that the American woman is the most privileged in the world. At an international gathering a woman from another country said to Mrs. Wyker, "I do not understand why American women are not more of a power."

American women are happy with what they have, Mrs. Wyker thinks, they are too busy rushing from one club to another, doing this and that, making speeches, serving on committees, that they don't even have time for their families.

Every person has the same amount of time—24 hours a day, said Mrs. Wyker, and it would be well to give an accounting of life and how it is spent. There is a difference, she said, in just being busy and doing worthwhile things.

Someone once said "Everything that's nailed down is coming loose" and, Mrs. Wyker pointed out, that is the way the world is today—we will have to find a way out, because we are the leaders—Americans dare not be afraid so long as we are Christians. We need calm leadership and it is many times those who do not make the speeches, who are not the outstanding people of the community, but those who are humble and calm that put out the steady hand in an hour of crisis. Such people, the speaker said, are well balanced.

Then Mrs. Wyker told of the qualities of a well balanced person. You need a light touch, she said, humor—to be able to laugh. The test of religion is whether or not you are a joyous person. Religion is what you are between Sundays, not just what you are on Sunday. "I have found," she said, "that those who quote the most Scripture do not always live it." She urged that each person stop long enough to see where they are going, what they stand for, what they really are. There is responsibility for women in the world today, Mrs. Wyker believes and it begins in the home, and she suggests that American women today need the stewardship of power.

The one power that steadies us, she said, is that of the universe as long as we have God we can not be afraid.

Beulah Brockman Recently Weds Marvin Ehlers

At one o'clock in the afternoon, Sunday, November 9, Miss Beulah Brockman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Brockman, 1105 West Seventh, became the bride of Mr. Marvin Ehlers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ehlers, Stover, at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. W. F. Strickert.

The bride chose for her wedding a navy blue suit with black accessories complimented with a corsage of red roses.

The bride's only attendant, Mrs. Henry Nottmeier, aunt of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue two piece dress with black accessories. Her corsage was also of red roses.

Mrs. Henry Nottmeier, uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Senators Calm Despite Taft's Labor Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Republican senators poured oil on troubled waters today in the wake of Sen. Robert A. Taft's sharp protest against President-elect Eisenhower's selection for secretary of labor.

"I don't think one remark should be considered a split any more than one swallow makes a summer," Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) told reporters. "We've got many big problems and we've got to work them out as a team."

A similar note was struck by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) in a separate interview. He said he thought Republican senators would be "a peaceful group" when they assembled for the start of the next Congress on Jan. 3.

Watkins, who supported Taft for the GOP presidential nomination, said that, despite talk to the contrary, he did not think there was "any feud or fight" over the post of Republican floor leader in the new Senate.

This is a position providing the most ready access to the man in the White House.

Watkins also said he did not think the selection of a floor leader would be affected by Taft's statement on Tuesday denouncing an "incredible appointment" Eisenhower's selection of Martin P. Durkin, a Democrat, as secretary of labor in his Cabinet.

Watkins said in his opinion Taft would not try to block Durkin's confirmation by the Senate or even vote against it.

Nonetheless, there were growing signs that Sen. Bridges (R-NH) would be called on to continue as the GOP floor leader in the incoming Senate—a post he took last year to head off a scrap between supporters of Taft and Eisenhower over the GOP presidential nomination.

Sen. Schoepfel (R-Kan.), who backed Taft, said he was going to be for the New Hampshire senator "all the way" if he wants the post. Bridges outranks all his GOP Senate colleagues in seniority. He has said he prefers to head the powerful appropriations committee, and also serve as temporary president of the Senate.

Bridges has said he would be willing to take the floor leadership again only if necessary to avert a "rough and tumble" party fight. An aide said that Bridges, now vacationing in the West, may issue a statement before long. There was speculation he might decide to continue as floor leader and still claim the chairmanship of the appropriations committee.

Ferguson, who ranks second only to Bridges among Republicans on the appropriations committee, was asked if he thought Bridges could carry both jobs.

"Well, he'd be a very busy man after the first of March," Ferguson replied, referring to the heavy workload that piles up on the ap-

More Conflicts Over Who Beat Up John Randazzo

ST. LOUIS (AP)—More conflicting testimony had piled up today on the question of who was responsible for the beating that sent John Randazzo to a hospital with fractures of the jaw and chin Nov. 12.

The two versions of the incident came at a hearing by City Executive Commissioner Arthur H. Bader to determine whether the liquor license should be suspended.

Randazzo, 39, a contract hauler, was beaten either in the establishment or in front of it. Detective Sgt. John A. Doherty has denied Randazzo's charge that he administered the beating, saying an attempt is under way to "frame" him because of his war on hoodlums.

Detectives Cornelius Powers testified at the hearing yesterday that John J. Vitale, an ex-convict, escorted Randazzo from the tavern the night of the beating. Powers said another police officer entered the place later and said the injured Randazzo had told him he was beaten by Vitale inside the tavern.

Doherty also quoted Randazzo as having said Vitale threw him out of the place.

But Robert C. Wolfe, a bartender at the place, testified that he escorted Randazzo from the bar because the trucker had too much to drink and became abusive.

A circuit court grand jury which began an investigation of the case reported it had received conflicting testimony. Another grand jury is to continue the investigation.

Best Chance for Maids To Get a Husband Here Is to Go to the Farm

WASHINGTON (AP)—It looks like the best chance for you unattached Missouri women to get a man is to go to the farm.

There are less unmarried white females on the farms and more unmarried males there.

This little sidelight came out today in a census bureau compilation known as the population characteristics bulletin.

For the state as a whole there are 75,359 more unmarried white females, 14 and over, than there are unmarried males.

The excess of women in this category in the cities is 98,277. But on the farms there are 105,696 unmarried males and only 72,894 unmarried females.

The bureau said the pattern of distribution of unmarried males and females in the state is similar to those in other populous states where greater job opportunities in the large cities attract unmarried females.

The unmarried non-whites in Missouri outnumber the unmarried males by 8,604.

Vandalism, Fires In Five Churches Traced to Girl, 13

POND CREEK, Okla. (AP)—Vandalism and fires in five churches were traced today to a 13-year-old school girl who said she resented religion.

The girl, who could pass for 18, admitted setting the fires to churches here and in nearby Tonkawa recently.

"I did it because my parents made me go to church. I told them if I went to any, I wanted to go to a different one than they belonged to," she said.

"I don't like being corrected," she had written to ministers, she confessed last night. Grant County Attorney John Amick said.

The Pond Creek Christian Church was destroyed in a blaze a week ago Sunday. The girl, whose name was withheld, said she touched off the Tonkawa fires and mutilated flags and Bibles while visiting her grandparents during the Thanksgiving holiday.

On Thanksgiving Day and the day following fire was found at the Presbyterian Church. Friday fire was discovered in the Catholic and Baptist churches. Furniture and another Bible were marred in the Baptist church.

Officers earlier expressed the opinion the damage was the work of subversives seeking to belittle the church and flag, or someone mentally deranged.

Timber Cutter Buried Under Huge Earthslide

ARISTA, W. Va. (AP)—A timber cutter was buried under a huge earthslide on a mountain in Southern West Virginia yesterday.

Another worker escaped when the onslaught of earth slid down Herndon Mountain, across a small valley and part way up the side of the opposite mountain.

Domenick Romano of Bluefield, W. Va., a partner in a firm which is doing strip mining work on coal fields in the area, said the man who was buried apparently ran the wrong way in an effort to escape. His body was not recovered and he was presumed dead.

Identities of the two workmen were not immediately available.

The two young men got up early one morning and went duck hunting. Along in the afternoon one of the men called his wife to tell her he was back in town and over at his mother's.

"What did you get?" asked the young wife, wondering how many ducks he had brought home with him, and she was surprised at the answer.

"I got wet," he said. And really and truly that was all he got. He didn't get any ducks, but he did get wet.

Attempting to cross the lake on logs, he stepped on a log that evidently thought he was too heavy — anyway it started going down with him on it and he was up to his waist in water before he could get off. He took the guns and the two boys went to his mother's, where he changed

•The Washington Merry-Go-Round Eisenhower Faces Problem Of Uniting Korea or Withdrawing

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952. By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

(ED. NOTE — In the following column in Drew Pearson's series on what Eisenhower faces in the Orient, he describes the hazardous future of a divided Korea.)

WASHINGTON — In the summer of 1945, while Gen. Eisenhower was resting from his victory over Germany, there were planted in Korea the seeds of difficulty which he must try to unravel today.

This was a headlong rush by the Siberian Red Army South to take Korea; matched by a similar rush by the American Army under MacArthur north to take Korea.

Faced with a possible clash by two supposedly allied, but potent into dry clothes before he went on home.—H. L.

Christmas parties are coming on thick and fast and one woman, who found herself with a party she didn't expect, began to worry. What would she do with her dog during the party?

The dog had the run of the house all the time, does as he pleases, and would be a general nuisance during the party.

"Would you," she said to her young housekeeper, "Baby sit with the dog during my party?"

"Well," laughed the girl, "I've done quit a bit of baby sitting but this is the first time I was ever asked to baby sit with a dog."

But she likes the dog, too, and agreed to be the baby sitter for the dog.

HL.

tionally hostile armies, their commanders did what Eisenhower did when he withdrew American troops to the river Elbe. They drew a line along the 38th parallel, and each stopped on its own side.

Russia, which stayed in the North, got 56 per cent of the territory, one-third of the people, the lion's share of the minerals, 50 per cent of the gold, most of the coal, iron, and water-power.

The United States, which remained in the South, got 44 per cent of territory, two-thirds of the people, the rest of the farm land, the best climate, fisheries, and a small amount of industry.

It was this unfortunate, ungainly division which planted the seeds of the present war. For the two sections of Korea have far less chance of existing separately than did our North and South in the 1860's.

It should have been no surprise, however, that the Red Army would "rush" Korea. For 80 years, Moscow has cast a greedy eye at the peninsula, has coveted its long shore line, has realized its strategic location. Because the Army that controls this peninsula jutting out into the Japan Sea is an ever-present danger to the seething, bustling, potentially powerful empire of Japan.

In fact, it is said that the Army that controls Korea can dominate much of Northern Asia.

Ancient Battle Ground

Twenty years ago, when transportation was relatively old-fashioned, I crossed the narrow strait separating Japan from the tip end of Korea in an antiquated South Manchurian RR ferry — boat in a matter of hours. Today by airplane it's a matter of minutes.

This strait is the bottleneck of the Japan Sea. The nation which guards both the Korean and the Japanese side of the narrow waterway can dominate shipping into Eastern Siberia.

And the nation which has its army on the Korean peninsula, almost cheek and jowl with Japan, is an ever-ready threat to our No. 1 bastion of defense against Asiatic Communism.

One for the Road

That is why Korea has been ravaged and fought over since before the days of Christ. That is why its fields have been wasted, its hills eroded, its people conquered.

There was a time when Korea was the religious center of the Orient, admired by China and Japan alike for its art, science, architecture, and literature; when it produced the first encyclopedia, the first astronomical observatory, the first ironclad warships. But most of the time, and especially in recent years, its great importance has been geographic.

That is what Gen. Eisenhower faces today. Though his mission is to carry out his pledge to work out "An early and honorable end" to the fighting, actually he will have to consider the over-all question of pacific policy.

GOP Policy In Pacific

And if he follows the policies urged by his new Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, and of his congressional leaders to take a more vigorous stand against Asiatic Communism, he will have to move forward, not out of Korea.

For the repeated demand of Republican leaders, from Speaker Joe Martin to Minnesota's Congressmen Judd in the House, to Taft and Bridges in the Senate, is that the United States must take a firmer, more aggressive stand against Communism in Asia.

Korea cannot be divorced from that stand.

This is why, even before Korea became a hot issue in the presidential campaign, or before it was ever suggested that Eisenhower go there, Gen. Mark Clark began sounding out the Pentagon, not regarding a withdrawal, but an advance.

This was the backstage reason for reports that General Clark had asked for three more U. S. divisions. Actually, he had not asked for them. He had only sounded out the Pentagon. But the plan for their use has been under definite discussion just the same.

This plan calls for a troop buildup during the winter with a full offensive in the spring. The Navy and Marine Corps urge another amphibious landing behind enemy lines as part of the plan, while the use of Chinese Nationalists from Formosa is also under consideration.

Peace Hangs In Balance

These are the problems Eisenhower will have to decide after he becomes president. They are delicate, difficult problems, which cannot be decided on his trip to Korea. Nor can they be decided by the outgoing administration.

However, a decision will have to be made fairly soon, for a big offensive takes months of careful preparation.

The new commander-in-chief as a military man should be well-equipped to make the decision in a manner to inspire public confidence.

But along with this military decision must be weighed some vitally important political decisions.

No. 1 — Will our U. N. allies go along with us on an all-out offensive in Korea? The French and British have held back late; in fact, our U. N. allies seem even more anxious to wash their hands of Korea than the discouraged American public.

No. 2 — Will Moscow retaliate in another part of the world if we start an offensive in Korea? Will she go into Iran while we are busy in Korea? Or will she intensify the attack on Indo-China? Or will she do both? It is perfectly feasible for Moscow to use the troops of satellite countries in various remote parts of the world where we cannot easily retaliate — even if we would.

These are the difficult, almost insoluble problems the President-Elect faces on his trip to the Orient.

8,000 AF Reserve Officers to Be Called

WASHINGTON — About 8,000 Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps students who will be commissioned between next May 1 and April 30, 1954, can expect a call from Uncle Sam soon afterwards.

The Air Force said yesterday the AFROTC men, to get their orders within four months after they are commissioned, will all be non-veterans or students not deferred for graduate study.

JUST as I went into the living room, the telephone rang. I answered. "It's for you, Papa. It's Mr. Sloan."

"Mr. George?" Ab Sloan was the stationmaster; George Sloan, his son, was the section-foreman. One of them usually called Papa when anything went wrong on the tracks.

Papa said a few words then wheeled away from the telephone; he liked excitement. "The trestle broke through with 26. It was loaded with tanks and what all—two flats went through."

"Was anybody hurt?" Mama said.

"I don't know. Army tanks scattered all over Tusculumbia bottom."

"Is Sloan to blame?" Mama said.

"Of course he's to blame. I told him that trestle wouldn't hold."

"You are next in line for section-foreman?" Mama said.

"I reckon I'm next. You finished Wallace? William? You boys go with me. You might could help."

I had got halfway up the stairs, and then I came back down into the living room. I knew they would not ask me to go, but I wanted them to have no excuse. I stood in the middle of the living room and made all three of them walk past me.

When they were gone, I went upstairs to my room. Anybody who would go a whole year in algebra and miss just one minus sign must be some kind of fool. And there must be some special tag for anybody who would cheat for Wallace. I had never cheated in school. I had never had to—I was going to be a valedictorian.

I thought of what Papa had said about the war ending soon, and I remembered what he had said the day France fell. "Who'd you expect to stop the Germans? An old-maidish French army that couldn't stop the Mississippi National Guard?"

N

NOBODY was going to take Meb away from me. I was going to lose her the way I had lost so many other things, most of them—it seemed—because I never had the right words. I thought that if I were away somewhere I would write Meb a letter and say something nice.

I knew that I would go to work the next day, as usual, and Meb would be there, as usual. And likely, William and Wallace would help Papa on the tracks. Come Saturday, I would work 18 hours. Around supertime, Mr. Wilkes would cut off some cheese and take out some crackers and then open some pop. He would spread it all out on a clean piece of wrapping paper and say, "You just eat here tonight. It won't cost you nothing." A few times, when business had been booming most of the day, he would take this knife and open a can of sardines. He always winked at me over those sardines, as if they were a rare treat, when he knew that almost anything else in the store would have pleased me more. But he wasn't stingy all the time. One Christmas I worked the week we were off from school and he gave me $5 extra for a Christmas present. I took it and bought two white shirts for William and Wallace. I always mess everything up when I do something like that. If I had had any sense I would have spent one dollar each on everybody. But what can you buy with $17 and five was all I had, for what I earned would go on the grocery bill—I used to think that someday I was going to run away from home and work and save enough money to come back and pay the grocery bill completely, for once. But anyway, I bought the two white shirts, and Christmas morning I took them into William's and Wallace's room. Wallace asked, "What did you buy Papa?"

I said, "Nothing."

He said, "I think we ought to give him these shirts, hard as he works for all of us."

I jerked the shirt from Wallace and ran downstairs and out to the woodpile and chopped both sleeves off. At noon I came by Meb's house, which seemed then like a small, strange church in the middle of nowhere—a wood fire, a Christmas tree, plenty of holly with full red berries. We had a glass of wine together.

"Tell me what you got for Christmas," she said.

"Oh, not much."

"What did your mother give you?"

"A scarf."

"And your father?"

"A tie."

"Wallace and William?"

"A pair of gloves."

Her face clouded. I thought she had sensed that I was making up lies. But then she smiled and went to the mantel. "Here's something for you. In France, it would not be polite for you to open it here. But open it."

W

HILE I unwrapped the package she said, "At home, in France, they give presents on the first of January."

I opened the box to a pair of suede gloves. "I can't take these," I said.

"I'll give them to William and get you something else."

"It's not that. I mean I can't take anything because I didn't get you anything."

"No, you mean you have a pair."

"I don't have a pair."

That was how I came to tell her the truth. But later, I was sorry that I had told her, because it sounded as if I didn't want her to give anything to William.

The World Today— Hangings Cut Longevity Hope

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — The hanging of the 11 Czechoslovakian Communist leaders is a little less than reassuring to other Communists that membership in the party is a guarantee of longevity.

This will hardly be a discouragement to them, though, since there are always enough optimists in any group to say: "It can't happen to me."

The unpleasant end which overtook the 11 Czechoslovakian leaders has been interpreted as the result of a struggle for power among the Czechoslovakian Communists themselves. This may be correct.

It may also be so incorrect that it sounds innocent. The 11 who were hanged had been long-time, faithful, hardworking Communists who had suffered for the cause and before their disaster held positions of great prominence.

In other Eastern European countries other Communist leaders, all with a long history of party work behind them, have been toppled and destroyed or are now in disgrace and awaiting destruction.

If all of them got into trouble simply because of power struggles among themselves inside their own countries, it might be concluded that Communists are simply politically cannibalistic and tend to chew each other up.

And the most of the other Communists would have to worry about—countries already under their control or in a country they'd like to get control—was learning how to get along among themselves.

But it is unthinkable, when remembering the Kremlin's control over the Eastern European countries, that anything serious could have happened to the 11 or any of the other old-time Communists without Stalin's approval.

All of them had been his instruments and none of them, since the Kremlin exerts rigid control on party members everywhere, could have come to power in the first place without the Kremlin's approval.

Why then were they in the end rewarded with the fate that overtook them? The Prague radio said the 11 had been convicted on charges of treason and other crimes. The public had to be told something.

Probably the Kremlin decided they had served their purpose—helping to establish communism in their own country—and from now on might be troublesome.

Because of their long activity in party work all of them had established a following—in Czechoslovakia, for example—which might obey them, instead of Moscow, in any break or disagreement with the Kremlin.

Tito in Yugoslavia had provided the classic example of how this could happen.

The liquidation of the long-loyal Communists in the other Eastern European countries should eliminate any future Titos for some time. Their successors can be handled in the same way, if that becomes necessary.

Even with the vision of the 11 Czechoslovakians dangling before them, Communists elsewhere—for instance, in France and America—might feel that while this had happened in Eastern Europe it wouldn't happen to them if they came to power.

But the evidence is against them, since the Kremlin could never risk another Tito anywhere that the party took over. If all this sounds a little gruesome, the game that's being played isn't tidy-winks.

Boat Firms Submit to Mob To Avoid Woe

NEW YORK (AP) — State Crime Commission witnesses say shipping firms must submit to mob rule, theft and padded payrolls to avoid labor strife on New York's vast waterfront.

The dock probe hearings, which went through a second session yesterday, are aimed at exposing racketeers which take an estimated $50 million dollar annual bite out of the seven billion dollar yearly New York shipping business.

Thomas Maher, a 40-year veteran on the waterfront, testified how his employers—the Grace Line—listed a phantom employee whose wages went to an ex-convict.

Maher said Tim O'Mara, a public leader with a police record, collected more than $25,000 in wages over a seven-year period for a non-existent employee known as "Edward Joseph Ross."

"What did O'Mara do to earn this money?" he was asked. "Prevent strikes," Maher replied.

Maher, a member of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), now is supervisor of hiring bosses for the Grace Line.

Maher testified he once had to re-hire a man, previously fired on charges of thievery, "on orders from 14th Street"—headquarters of Joseph P. Ryan, ILA president.

Maher said the man, John Scanlon, from then on "did, maybe, an hour's work a day" and collected a full day's pay.

The witness corroborated earlier testimony concerning the theft of 10 tons of steel from a United States Lines pier. The firm gave up that particular pier after only six months' occupancy.

If watched turned in a thieving dock hand, Maher said, the longshoremen "would strike."

He further testified that the union decided whom he should hire as supervisory employees on his pier. If that wasn't done, Maher said, "you'd have a strike on your hands."

Earlier testimony described strike threats as coming from the longshoremen themselves rather than from the union.

Frank Russo, an ILA business agent admitted on the witness stand that he received $1,400 from shippers over a two-year period. Russo denied getting the money to avoid labor trouble on the piers, saying:

"I didn't go out and ask them. I find (sic) most of it in my office when I went up."

In an earlier private appearance before the crime commission, Russo denied receiving any payments from shipping or stevedore firms.

Yesterday he told the probes, "I didn't have much schooling. I didn't understand the questions."

Commission member Ignatius Wilkinson commented: "You're not that stupid, Mr. Russo."

Vincent Carpenter, partner in the Davie Transport Company, testified that he paid $600 a month for two years to Michael Clemente, a 44-year-old longshoreman whom the government describes as "the overlord of the East River docks."

Carpenter said the payments were made on the basis of $60 per ship which docked at Clemente's piers, and the monthly trips averaged about 10 boats. Clemente currently is awaiting federal trial on perjury charges.

Carpenter also testified he paid about $400 a month to Thomas May, an ILA official under federal indictment on extortion charges stemming from the alleged payments.

"Isn't it a fact that you made these payments to Clemente and May for doing nothing?" Carpenter was asked.

"Yes," the witness replied, adding that payment to Clemente stopped "about the time this investigation started—about June of this year."

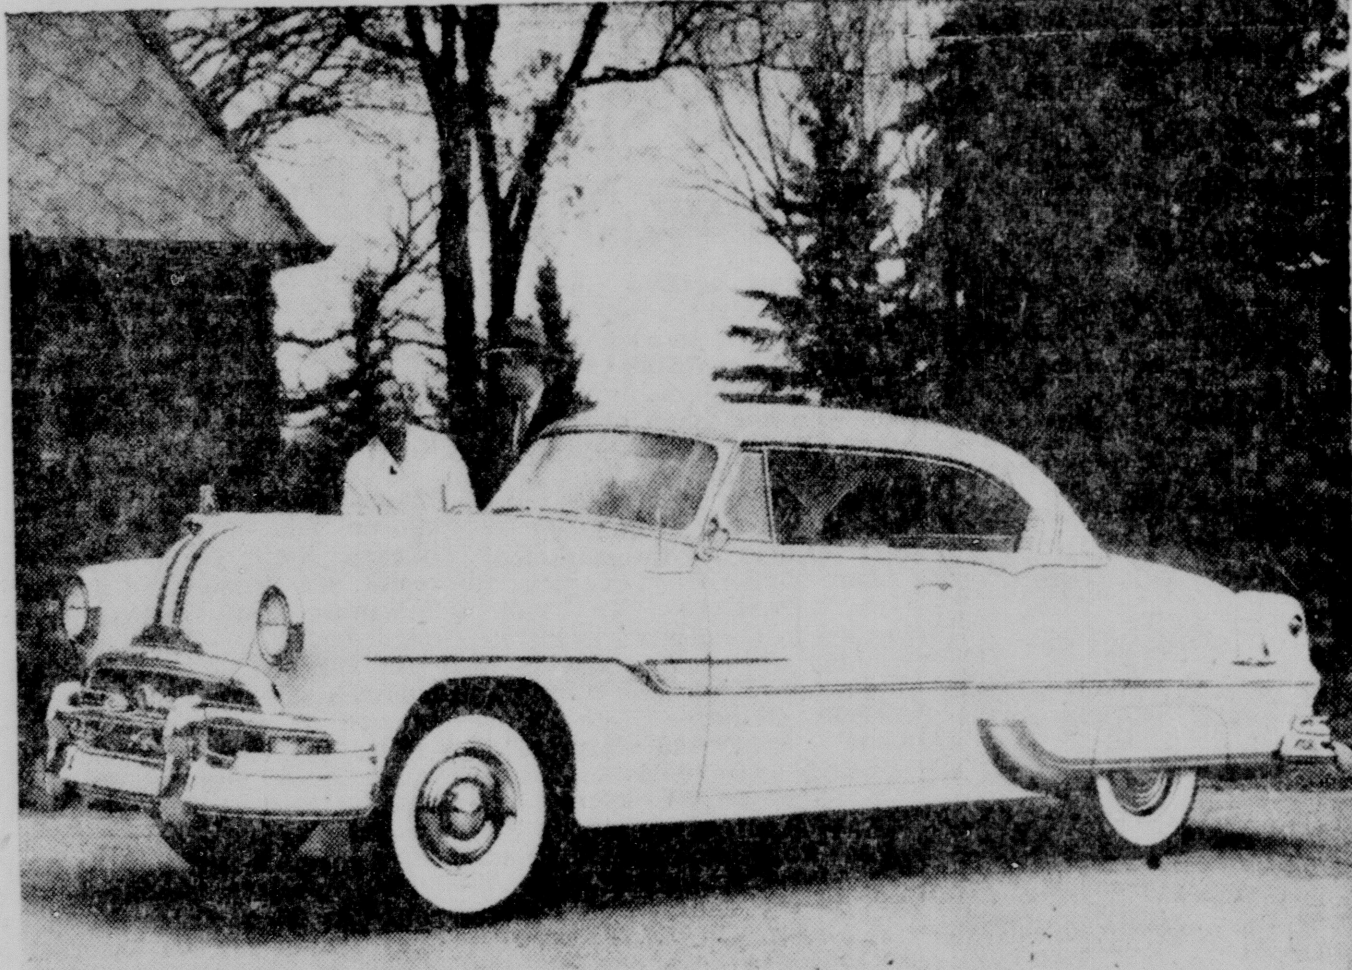

Herbert Is Furious At His Admirer

LONDON (AP) — Humorous A. P. Herbert was furious today at a great admirer of his works — his former chief cook of one day. The kitchen expert — a lady known only as Mary Jane — started work in the Herbert household yesterday. She prepared one good meal, told her boss how much she liked his writings — then disappeared with 100 pounds ($280) worth of the household silver.

Scotland Yard informed Herbert — more formally known as Sir Alan since he was knighted by the late King George VI in 1945 — that he need not be too hurt. Mary Jane has tricked hundreds of other persons in a similar manner.

Tells Possible Peaceful Use Of H-Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — An atomic scientist came up today with the first public explanation on how hydrogen bomb materials might be tamed for peaceful uses, such as power.

Electricity discharged through a thin wire might set off a "slowed down" reaction which could be controlled for various purposes, Dr. George Gamow told a reporter.

He said there are other "theoretically possible" techniques that might be even better, but he declined to amplify.

Up until recently the general view, including that of most top scientists, has been that atomic energy could be released from hydrogen only through a terrific explosion.

Gamow, internationally-known theoretical physicist who serves as a consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission, made the comment when asked about a recent statement by Sen. Hickenlooper, a member of the joint congressional atomic committee.

Hickenlooper said that "the hydrogen picture contains some hope, in time, for peaceful and constructive applications."

The senator's statement provided the first indication that atomic officials see a possibility of using hydrogen fusion reactions for something other than projected H-bombs. The AEC has said nothing along that line.

The consensus of most top scientists has been not only that fusion would involve in explosion in itself — but also that it would have to be triggered by an exploding A-bomb.

Hickenlooper's statement was described by the Federation of American Scientists as "more startling to scientists outside the AEC than the 'news' and rumors of a hydrogen bomb."

Dr. Gamow said he didn't know what Hickenlooper had in mind. But he told a reporter that it's at least theoretically possible to get a "slowed-down" atomic reaction with hydrogen bomb materials by causing a powerful electric discharge through a thin wire placed in such materials.

The idea of the electric discharge, he said, would be to provide the tremendously high temperatures required to make such materials fuse.

Asked how even small explosions would lend themselves to control for power purposes, Gamow said it's succession of non-explosive fusion reactions which might be utilized for power and other purposes.

Gamow said the ideal way of getting industrial atomic power from hydrogen would be to have furnaces capable of being operated continuously at temperatures of a few hundred thousand degrees — so as to provide adequate heat for fusing hydrogen.

But he declared the drawback there is to find furnace construction materials capable of containing such heat without melting away themselves.

Durkin Hopeful Of Taft, Labor Meet on TH Law

NEW YORK (AP) — A conference between Sen. Robert A. Taft and labor leaders to discuss proposals for amending the Taft-Hartley Act is a major goal of Martin P. Durkin, President-elect Eisenhower's choice for secretary of labor.

Durkin says he will try to bring about such a conference "as soon as I can," but does not feel free to do it until he assumes office.

A meeting including management representatives "at a later date" is also on Durkin's program.

Revealing his plan at a news conference at Eisenhower's headquarters in the Hotel Commodore yesterday, he predicted that relations between organized labor and the Eisenhower administration will be "very good."

Durkin — an AFL leader and Democrat who backed Gov. Adlai Stevenson for president — was asked whether Taft's blast that his selection by Eisenhower was "incredible" might be an obstacle to a Taft-labor conference.

"I don't think so," he replied. Durkin commented that Taft's recent statement contained "no personal attack on me."

Discussing Eisenhower's relations with labor, Durkin said: "Labor wants to see him do good and will give him every assistance to make his administration a successful one."

The secretary-designate expressed a personal belief that federal labor laws generally require a "basic overhauling." Taft has said he favors changes in the act he co-authored with former Republican Congressman Fred A. Hartley Jr.

Durkin said he planned the Taft-labor conference to see "if there could be a meeting of the minds as to what amendments could be agreed upon."

Prior to the news conference, Durkin conferred at length with Eisenhower assistants.

Reuther, New CIO President, Gets Program

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The CIO's new president, Walter P. Reuther, today charted a fighting program to keep the labor organization an active factor in America's industrial life.

Reuther, in a speech accepting the post as successor to the late Philip Murray, said he would strive for the biggest possible gains for workers already organized, and campaign vigorously to organize workers who are now non-union.

Election of the dynamic, 45-year-old Reuther, head of the big CIO auto workers union, came late yesterday as a climax to the CIO's annual convention.

It capped a bitterly-contested fight pitting Reuther against a union old-timer and former coal miner, Allan S. Haywood. Haywood, 64, was promptly re-elected as the CIO's executive vice-president after losing the showdown to Reuther.

The split in CIO ranks over the election apparently was quickly healed, at least on the surface. Both the Reuther and Haywood forces pledged continued allegiance to the CIO.

Reuther said, "I say to the men who sit on their plush cushions of the Union League Clubs of America, I say this for you who are convention delegates and I say it for the millions of CIO members back home, that the fat men on the plush cushions are wrong."

"We are not going to go out of here divided. We are going to go out of here united to carry on this struggle until we win."

Reuther then went ahead with an off-the-cuff speech delving into practically every subject of the day, touching on such varied problems as foreign policy, politics, union affairs and his own personal income.

As to his own finances, Reuther said he was content to keep living on the $11,250 annual salary he gets as president of the more than a million-member auto workers union.

"I'm in the labor movement not for what they pay me," he told newsmen. "I'm in here because I believe in what they're doing."

Reuther, it was reliably reported, will undergo an operation soon for removal of gallstones. The condition has bothered him for some time, and surgery has been delayed for six months.

A man with a meteoric career in the labor movement, Reuther has come up through the tough days of organizing the auto industry. A one-time Socialist, he has supported numerous social change ideas.

In outlining his aims to the CIO convention, Reuther spoke as if the social changes accomplished under the New Deal and Fair Deal were only stepping-stones to the goals he wants.

Despite Reuther's declarations that the split within CIO ranks would close without scars, some CIO officials were afraid of future dissension because of the close vote.

The ballot result was announced at 3,079,181 for Reuther, and 2,613,103 for Haywood, giving Reuther a margin of about 8 per cent of the CIO's claimed membership.

The votes were cast by some 600 delegates, with certain numbers of ballots allocated to various unions in the CIO.

Marines Save Baby From Burning House

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Two Jacksonville Marines, flagged down by a mother crying for help, rescued a 4-month-old girl from a burning house yesterday.

The baby, Linda Winn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Winn, was reported in fair condition suffering with third degree burns.

Sgt. Joe L. Smith, 24, was slightly burned on the ears, nose and lips. His companion, T.Sgt. Richard P. Musgrove, 29, was uninjured.

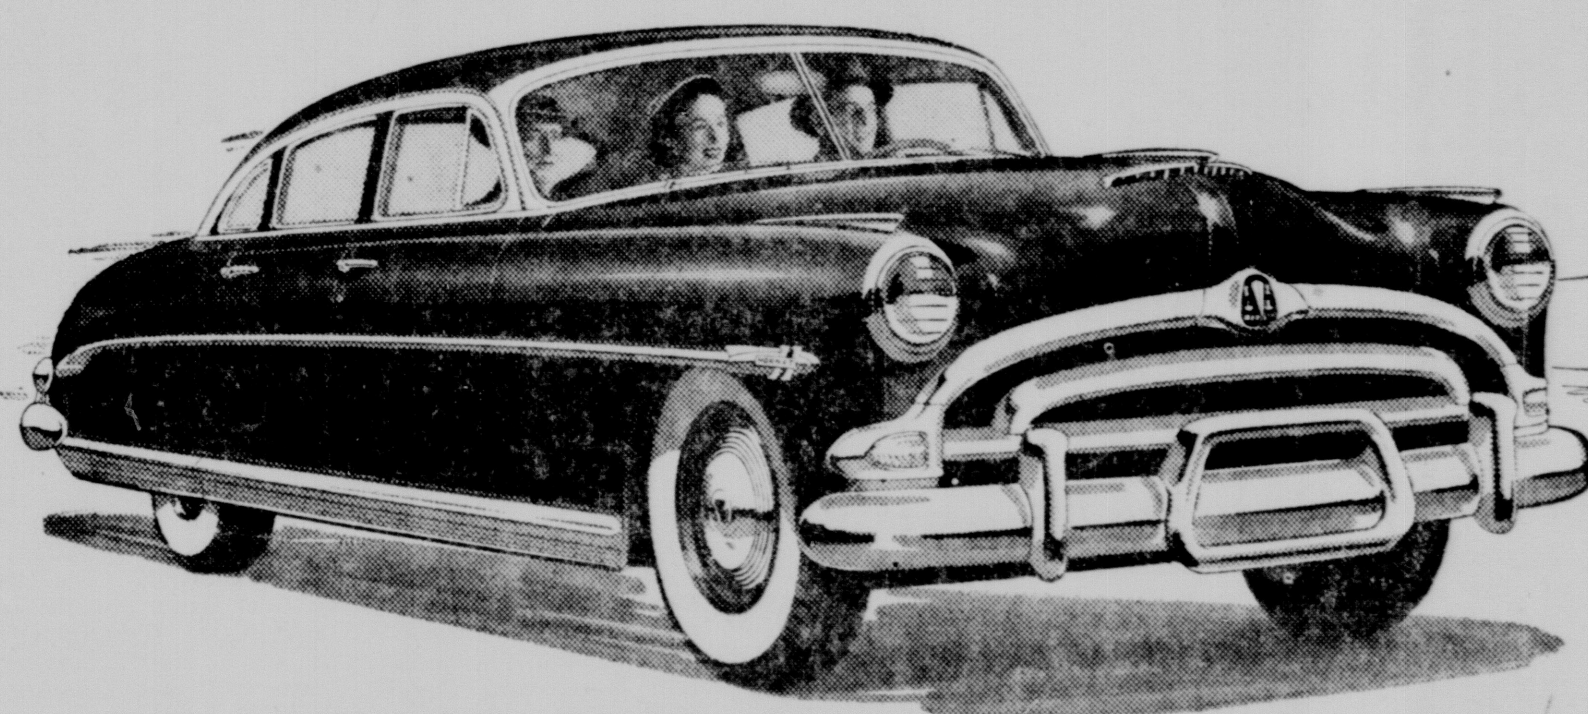

The Marines were driving their recruiting station wagon when stopped by Mrs. Winn, 18, running on the road, pointing to her blazing four-room house and screaming, "My baby's inside!"

Musgrove pushed in the bedroom window and Smith crawled into the smoke-filled room, found the baby, and handed her out.

Mich. State, Ga. Tech Each Get 2 on All-American

Billy Vessels, Sooner Halfback, On First Squad

NEW YORK (AP)—Michigan State and Georgia Tech, the two major undefeated college football teams of 1952, each placed two men on the Associated Press All-America based on the recommendations of eight regional boards of experts comprising well-known sports writers and sportscasters.

The Southeastern Conference led with five men on the two first teams, offensive and defensive, followed by the Big Ten with four and the Pacific Coast Conference with three.

The AP's all-star offensive backfield is composed of Billy Vessels, Oklahoma; Paul Giel, Minnesota; Don Heinrich, Washington; and Jack Scarbath, Maryland.

There were only two men on the first teams who previously made the All-America—Marvin Matuszak, Tulsa, at guard; and Heinrich, who was on the 1950 team but was sidelined last year by injuries.

Michigan State, the national champion, is represented by two stalwarts of its defensive unit—Frank Kush, guard, and Dick Tamburo, line backer. Georgia Tech, the runner-up, placed Pete Brown at center on the offensive team and Bobby Moorehead in the defensive backfield.

The AP All-America is based on reports and recommendations through the final games of Nov. 29.

The football trends of 1952 were clearcut:

- 1. Major teams used more and more players, with the result that standout personalities became rarer.
- 2. The fumble as caused by fancy ball handling and sharp tackling became more decisive than ever in big games.
- 3. The NCAA's television program, restricting national video to one big game each week with some minor exceptions, held firm but there were rumbles of dissonance.
- 4. The offense took over more completely than ever from the defense.

AP's offensive unit has big Tom Stohlhandske of Texas at one end and Frank McPhee, Princeton's 60-minute player. At the other, Kline Gilbert, a giant on Mississippi's surprising line, is at tackle along with David Suminski of Wisconsin. Guards are John Michels of Tennessee and Matuszak, Brown, Vessels, Giel, Heinrich and Scarbath round out the eleven.

The defensive team brings Don Brandy of Colorado and Tom Scott of Virginia at ends, with J. D. Kimmel of Houston, a former West Point cadet, at one tackle and Charlie LaPradd of Florida at the other. Kush and Steve Eisenhauer of Navy are the guards.

The team has two terrific linebackers in Tamburo and Don Moomaw of UCLA. In the defensive backfield are Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame, another rare 60-minute player, Jim Sears of Southern California and Moorehead.

The 1952 offensive ends are outstanding. Coach Charlie Caldwell of Princeton called McPhee "the greatest all-around player I ever coached." Coach Ed Price of Texas termed Stohlhandske "everything you could expect of an offensive end." He led the Southwest Conference in pass receiving, catching 30 for 519 yards and five touchdowns.

The backfield packs both running and passing ability. Vessels of Oklahoma rushed 168 times for 1,072 yards, leading the Big Seven in this field and setting a new school record. He scored 18 touchdowns, completed seven out of 20 passes for 299 yards and two touchdowns, caught seven passes and returned nine kickoffs for 145 yards.

Heinrich broke his own Pacific Coast Conference passing record with 137 completions in 270 attempts for .507 percentage. Thirteen of these were touchdown passes. He won the major college national passing title for the second time, and had a year's total offense of 1,652 yards.

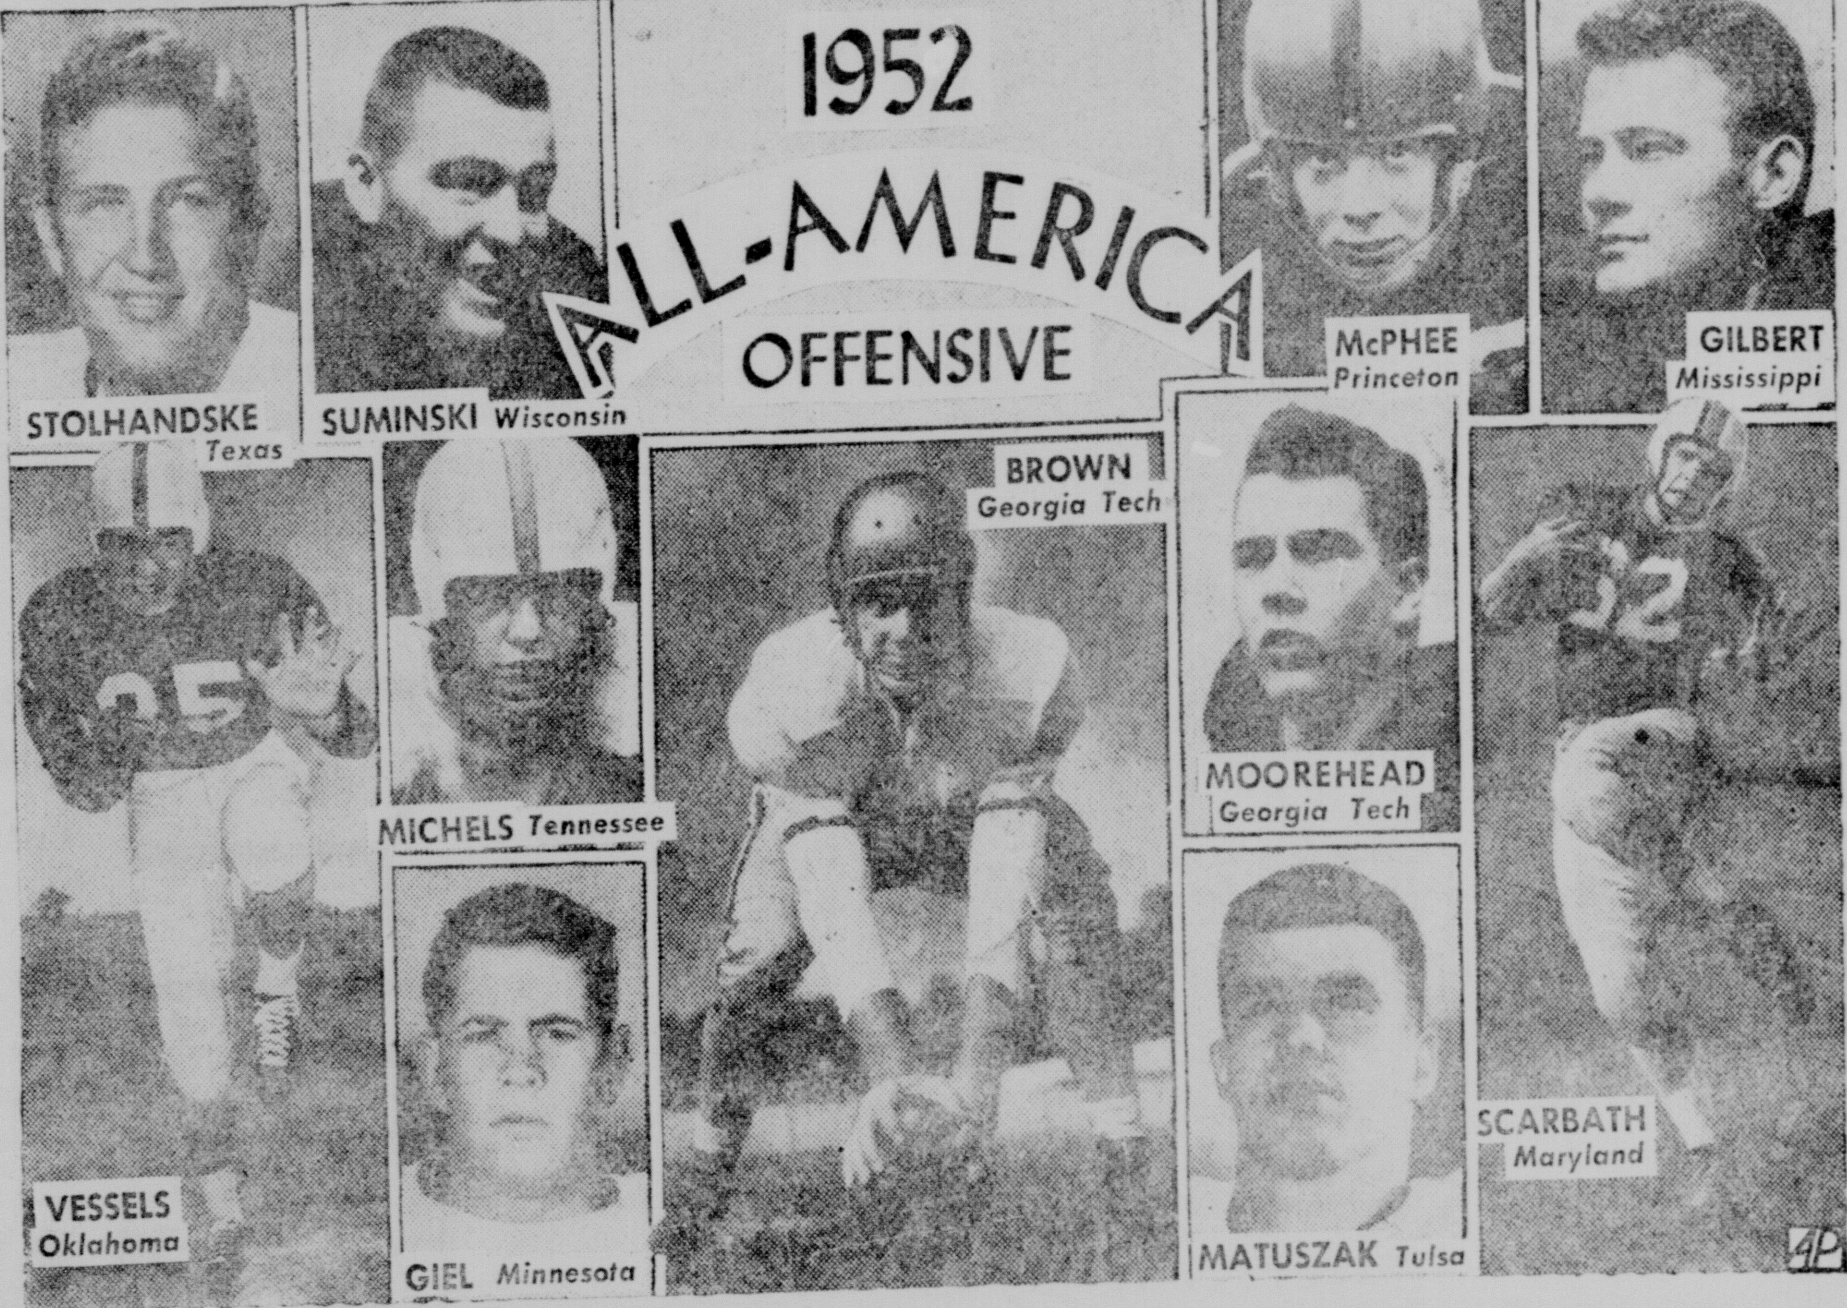

Defensively, the 1952 team was strong. Scott at end was termed by Virginia Coach Art Gueppie as his "team's defensive inspiration," while Brandy was called by Coach Del Ward of Colorado "the fiercest competitor I've coached in 25 years."

Dallas Club To Take Case Before Frick

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The Dallas club of the Texas League, rebuffed in its efforts to terminate the major league agreement at the minor league convention yesterday, will plead its case before Commissioner Ford Frick and will appeal to the courts for a ruling only after all other efforts have failed, league attorney Prentice Wilson said today.

Openly disappointed by the overwhelming vote against the two proposals submitted by the Dallas club to either permit all minor league players to waive their draft rights, or terminate the major league agreement, Wilson said the Texas League would continue its fight against "major league domination" of baseball until "an equal distribution of power and control is brought about in the minor leagues."

"The way it stands now," said Wilson, "the independent minor league club is at the mercy of the majors. In actuality, it is taxation without representation. The interests of the major leagues are directly opposed to those of the minors. They violate the terms of their own contract but they won't give us the privilege of trying to adjust or revise the contract. I am in favor of tearing up the old contract and writing another one with teeth in it."

THE AP'S 1952 ALL-AMERICA OFFENSIVE FOOTBALL TEAM—Above are players on The Associated Press 1952 All-America offensive football team chosen by The AP in consultation with a nation-wide board of experts representing all sections of the United States. The lineup:

GUARDS—John Michels, Tennessee, and Marvin Matuszak, Tulsa.
CENTER—Peter Brown, Georgia Tech.

BACKS—Billy Vessels, Oklahoma; Paul Giel, Minnesota; Jack Scarbath, Maryland; and Don Heinrich, Washington.

THE AP'S ALL-AMERICA DEFENSIVE TEAM FOR 1952—They were chosen by the AP in consultation with a nation-wide board of experts representing all sections of the United States. The lineup follows:

ENDS—Tom Scott, Virginia, and Don Brandy, Colorado.
TACKLES—J. D. Kimmel, Houston, and Charlie LaPradd, Florida.
GUARDS—Steve Eisenhauer, Navy, and Frank Kush, Michigan State.

Minor Leagues Adopt a New Rule on Bonus

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The minor leagues wind up their convention today after having adopted a new bonus rule, passed the old high school rule, put in a waiver rule designed to hold on to their star players and voted down a proposal that would have revolutionized the entire structure of baseball.

At the same time, the National American Leagues, on the eve of their official opening today, held separate meetings on television and radio rights which ended unsatisfactorily with each league divided into two camps.

The minors unanimously voted to accept the bonus rule proposed by the Executive Council that was designed to curb payments of $25,000 to $100,000 to undrafted youngsters. It must, however, be ratified by the major leagues at their joint meeting next Sunday to become effective.

The rule designates as a "bonus player" any free agent who has received in excess of $4,000 from a Class A club and up, or $3,000 from a Class B club or one of lower classification. The majors are permitted to pay $5,000 in salary and bonuses. A major league television player must be kept two years. A minor league bonus player cannot be moved up for a year, at the end of which time he becomes subject to unrestricted draft.

A major league club violator can be fined $2,000. A minor league violator costs the club $1,000. The individual responsible could also be fined $500.

The high school rule permits scouts to talk to boys but forbids them to be signed until their class graduates.

In an effort to stop the practice of major league clubs raiding their farms by bringing up promising athletes in mid-season, the minors voted unanimously to prohibit the recall of players after July 31. A player sent out on option must stay with the minor league club for at least 10 days. Only in an extreme emergency, such as a player on the parent team getting hurt, can a big league club request and receive permission to recall a player.

The minors squelched a revolutionary proposal by Bill Veeck, president of the St. Louis Browns, that would have forbidden major league clubs from signing a player without previous experience, and would have made all minor league players eligible for draft after their first year in professional baseball.

The assemblage not only voted the proposal down overwhelmingly but ruled that hereafter no proposal or amendment can be made from the floor, as Veeck's was done, without the sponsor giving at least 15 days notice to the association prior to the convention.

The major league meetings on television resulted in open splits in each circuit. After voting down two proposals by Veeck to either eliminate television altogether or split the TV receipts, the American League divided into two camps. Six clubs signed a two-year reciprocal agreement starting Jan. 1 on TV and radio rights. The Browns and Chicago White Sox refused to give permission to broadcast or televise any of their games. Naturally, they will not broadcast or televise their home games against the six other clubs.

Lorne (Gump) Worsley, in addition to being a goalie for the New York Rangers, is one of Canada's foremost soccer players.

Bobby Adams and Roy McMillan of the Cincinnati Reds were the only members of the team to play in all 154 Redleg games.

Young Bennett was wounded

fatally in the abdomen while hunting in Taneey County. He died in a Branson hospital.

Matmen Give A Good Show Opening Night

Wrestling opened to a bang, Thursday night, and the local wrestling fans seemed well-pleased with the matchmaking of promoter Ivan Peters, former Sedalia, who has taken over the mat sport for the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion. The three matches were good, but the opener and the main event were real thrillers for the ringers.

Jack Bernard, "Loverboy the Great" Louisville, Ky., took a beating in the feature event after winning the opening fall, in one minute and 19 seconds, from Frank Altman, Kansas City. Bernard made a whirlwind finish of the fall, only to come back in the second period to lose when Altman succeeded in getting a body press on the huge man. It took 16 minutes and three seconds for the fall. In the final period Bernard and Altman had one of the roughest contests seen in the local ring in months. Had Bernard held his head instead of losing all sense of sportsmanship he may have won the fall, but instead he cut Altman's forehead.

When the referee started pounding him while on the mat resulting in the referee disqualifying him, Bernard had been warned several times about his acts in the ring before the decision was made. The final fall as 13 minutes and 12 seconds.

In the semi-final Connie O'Connor, Colorado Springs, won over Billy Paige, Omaha, Neb., in a fairly good match. O'Connor took the first fall in nine minutes and 12 seconds using a body press. When the second fall period started, Miss Paige used a quick shoulder block followed by a press and won the fall in 35 seconds. But it was a little rougher in the third period, resulting after seven minutes and 35 seconds in a fall going to Miss O'Connor who roughed up Miss Paige and used a body press.

The opening event was something unusual for a preliminary. It was good enough for top billing when Jack "Hook" Nashworth, Vinita, Okla., tied into "Pretty Boy" Roque, Hollywood, Calif. Roque won the first fall after a rough and tumble contest using a Boston crab, the fall ending after 12 minutes and 16 seconds. In the second period Nashworth after giving "Pretty Boy" a good going over, won in five minutes and 30 seconds using the abdominal stretch. Nashworth repeated with the same hold in the third period to win in five minutes and 17 seconds.

Next Thursday night a battle royal has been scheduled with seven wrestlers scheduled to enter for the $100 purse. "Pretty Boy" Roque was the first to get his name in the pot. It will be easier to win in a royal. Roque made a special trip to the newspaper after the match to assure it he wanted in and to be sure to use his name.

The other entries will be announced probably Sunday. It is open to any contestant who wants to try it.

Three Deaths Mar Opening of Deer Season In State

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Three hunters were killed yesterday as Missouri's 3-day deer hunting season opened. Although the fatalities marred the opening, at least 1,705 deer were shot in an otherwise successful day.

The dead hunters were Arthur Haynes, 65, of Olean; Harold H. Norman, 33, of Parma; and Jack Bennett, 16, of Taneeyville.

Haynes was shot through the heart in Gasconade County. Red Bailey, head of the conservation commission's protection division, said Haynes apparently was killed by a bullet from the rifle of Doyle Scott, Fulton. Bailey quoted Scott as saying he fired at a noise he heard in the brush.

Norman, shot through the chest near Ellinsore in Carter County, apparently was the victim of a hunting companion's bullet, conservation agents said. The agents said W. L. Ramsey, 50, of Parma, told them he mistook Norman for a deer and fired from about 150 yards.

Young Bennett was wounded

fatally in the abdomen while hunting in Taneey County. He died in a Branson hospital.

Sports Roundup—

Can't Be Neutral on Irish Shift; Writer On N-D Side

NEW YORK (AP)—The most interesting controversy of the dying football season is the fuss being raised over Notre Dame's so-called "sucker shift." Is it legal? Is it treachery? Does it violate the spirit of the game?

You can't be neutral. For this reason we are forced to line up on the side of big Ed (Moose) Krause, Notre Dame athletic director, who contends all the future is a move to kill "football wit and intelligence."

All our combative sports, in a measure, are based on outsmarting as well as outbrawling our adversaries. Any trick or stroke, then, which helps promote victory is good so long as it doesn't break the rules.

The severest critics of the Irish's offside-provoking maneuver acknowledge it's probably not illegal. They simply say it's unethical or a heck of a way to win a football game.

By the same reasoning, it seems to us, you might say a fighter is a sneaky culprit for feinting with his left and then refragating his opponent with a straight right-hand bolt to the chin. Or a baseball pitcher is unethical in feeding the batter a slow curve when the batter is looking for a fast ball.

In any of these cases, the fellow caught off guard is made to look a bit foolish and you can't much blame his chagrin—such as Southern California's chagrin—at being beaten by such a trick. But the answer doesn't lie in the rules. The answer is to be careful the next time.

On this type of play, Notre Dame lines up in the T-formation and then shifts into a box. At South Bend Saturday three Southern Cal Trojans bolted over the line of scrimmage at the shift. The Trojans were penalized five yards to their own four and Notre Dame soon had a touchdown.

Krause points out that Notre Dame has had the shift since it came out of Knute Rockne's head in 1913. Then he asks the reasonable question: "What's wrong with trickery?"

Football is founded on trickery. Teams maintain elaborate espionage systems to spy on opponents, steal plays and conceive means of beating them to the punch. The Statue of Liberty, the reverse, the screen pass all are intended to mesmerize the enemy.

And it's not only true of football. Back in the halcyon days when we thought we some day would be another Don Budie, a prankish tournament tennis player pulled a unique and effective serve.

He tossed the ball high in the air, in the accepted fashion, as if to whale across a cannonball delivery. But while the first ball was still in the air, he undercut the second ball and sent it sneaking over the net.

This frequently was good enough for a point. While the opponent was watching the first ball, never touched, the second slipped across too quickly to handle.

This was great stuff until one day the second ball failed to fall into the court. The opponent yelled "doubles." The prankish server insisted he had another delivery since the first ball wasn't touched. They're probably still trying to find it in the rule book.

Jimmy Lear and Bud Slay, 1952 seniors, combined for Mississippi's longest pass play in 1951—a 67 yard touchdown against Tulane.

Ryan's Place As Tribe Chief Is Uncertain

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ellis Ryan flew home today in an effort to quiet a dispute which threatens his hold on the presidency of the Cleveland Indians.

Before leaving the major league meetings at Phoenix, Ariz., he denied the differences concerned Hank Greenberg, Tribe general manager with whom he was reported at loggerheads.

"I will not attempt to deny the fact that there have been differences of opinion among members of our official family," Ryan said, apparently referring to the 12-man board of directors.

He denied the solution would involve either his own resignation or Greenberg's.

A club official who declined to give his name told a reporter at Phoenix: "You can look at it this way. When an argument between a husband and wife is kept to themselves they have a pretty good chance of patching it up."

"But when people in the neighborhood find out about it and it gets in the newspapers, there isn't much chance of a peaceful settlement."

Yesterday Ed McAuley, veteran baseball writer for the Cleveland News, reported Ryan and Greenberg were at loggerheads. McAuley also said "It is a good bet" one of them "will be out" before next season.

After that story, Ryan decided to fly here. Nine of the 12 club directors are in Cleveland. They meet next month.

Greenberg, who last year signed a three-year pact giving him $65,000 annually, said he did not know anything about the squabble, explaining he had just returned from a European trip.

No club official would comment for the record on details of the dispute.

Sugar Ray Stripped of Title

Move by Athletic Commission Comes For Defense Failure

NEW YORK, (P)—The New York state Athletic Commission stripped Sugar Ray Robinson of his world middleweight title in a surprise move early today.

The action brought this report from George Gainford, Robinson's manager, "Somebody is screwing someplace. A title is won in a ring and taken away in a ring."

Robert Christenberry, commission chairman, declared Robinson's title was being vacated because he had not met "the rule which requires a champion to defend his title every six months."

"We had given him an extra month to decide whether to continue his boxing or go into a career as an entertainer," said Christenberry. "Up to now we have not had an answer."

To this, Gainford, contacted on a train at New Haven, Conn., enroute to Boston, asserted he had mailed a special delivery letter to Christenberry before he and Robinson had left New York.

"It is our understanding that we were only to notify the commission that negotiations were underway for a fight," Gainford said. "In the letter, which Christenberry should receive today we explain that we are negotiating with Jack Solomon, the British promoter, for a title fight with Randy Turpin in London next June."

Robinson lost his middleweight title to Turpin in London in July, 1951, but won it back in a return bout the following September at the Polo Grounds, New York.

Robinson, now the featured dancer and master of ceremonies in a night club act that opens in Boston Sunday, was asleep when the train arrived in New Haven.

"He's in for a surprise when he wakes up," Gainford said.

Harry Wiley, Robinson's trainer, added: "Robinson's in good shape and ready to fight anytime."

Sugar Ray, 32, regarded as one of the greatest boxers of the current era, last fought on June 25 when he failed to lift the lightweight crown from champion Joey Maxim. He lost on a TKO when he was unable to come out for the 14th round because of heat exhaustion.

He has been quoted since that memorable fight in Yankee Stadium that "I'm definitely in the twilight of my career."

"Still he has never come right out and said 'I quit' or 'I retire'."

Five Games As Big 7 Opens Cages

KANSAS CITY, (P)—The Big Seven Conference will inaugurate its new basketball season tomorrow night with a five-game schedule that should offer good tests for at least three of its teams.

Coach Jack Gardner's Kansas State Wildcats, who are heavily favored to replace Kansas as champion, will open against the Drake Bulldogs at Manhattan.

The Colorado Buffaloes, who are expected to come up with a strong club under coach Bebe Lee, will meet Utah State at Boulder.

Coach Bruce Drake's Oklahoma Sooners should have a busy evening with Iowa at Norman.

Nebraska and Iowa State have slightly easier jobs. Coach Harry Good's Nebraskans will meet South Dakota University and Iowa State will take on South Dakota State. Both games will be on the Big Seven courts.

Kansas, minus top hands from the NCAA championship outfit, doesn't get started until Dec. 11 when Phog Allen's boys play Tulane in New Orleans.

Missouri will open on Dec. 13 against Ft. Leonard Wood at Columbia.

Kansas State, on paper at least, appears a sure thing for the championship. The Wildcats have the biggest team in history, experience, speed and reserves.

The front line of Dick Knostman, 6-6, Jack Carby, 6-7, and Jesse Prisock, 6-5, could prove one of the greatest in the nation.

Kansas lost its great Clyde Lovellette, a national scoring record breaker, and four other members of its championship team. Football injuries to Charlie Hoag and Gil Reich in late season also have hurt the squad.

Hoag underwent a knee operation this week and likely will be lost for the season. Reich, who suffered a broken finger in the Missouri game, should be ready to play soon.

Missouri is being rated the strongest threat to Kansas State hopes, but coach Sparky Stalcup's team must get good play from sophomore Bob Reiter, 6 foot 8 4 inch center, to make the young club go.

Actually there appears little spread between the teams after Kansas State, Nebraska has eight lettermen back.

At Colorado, coach Lee also has eight lettermen. The team came fast late last season, upsetting Kansas State 67-57, in a game that knocked the Wildcats out of a share of the title.

Oklahoma hopes to get new fire out of a couple of transfers. They are Ronald Dwyer, 6-3, from Texas A. & M. and Larry Hamilton, who had a freshman year at Kansas State.

Iowa State will start with a veteran lineup expected to feature Delmar Diercks, 6-8 center, and play-maker Sam Long.

TOWN AND COUNTRY VOLLEYBALL SQUAD—Young ladies of the Sedalia Town and Country Shoe Factory have organized a volleyball squad which is playing in the Central Missouri area. The team already has several games played, behind them being a 2-1 defeat over Lamy's Garment Factory aggregation and a 1-2 loss to the Cole Camp High School alumni team. Teams desiring games with the team can contact the manager at Town and Country. Members of the team are: (Back row) left to right, Helen Masters, Melva Ramseyer, Jo Ann McPherson, Dorothy (Williams) Sims, Maxine Griggs. (Front row) Carleen Wilken, Peggy Blaylock, Darlene Patterson, Betty Smith and Louise Still. Jean Hoard, (not shown) was "getting out a payroll" the night the picture was taken.

Tipton Tourney Results

The St. Peter's Saints won over Ottumwa, Thursday night in the Tipton Annual High School 14th Annual Invitational tournament, 57-54.

California advanced by defeating Bunceton, 56-39.

Jamestown slipped past Tipton, 55 to 48.

Games for tonight are: Stover vs. New Bloomfield; Prairie Home

Denies Attendance Vow By St. Joseph Club

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (P)—W. L. Hegarty, president of the St. Joseph Baseball association, denied Thursday night that his club had guaranteed an attendance of 100,000 or better in 1953 to get a working agreement with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The attendance statement was attributed Thursday to Bert Lamb, president of the Salina baseball club in the Western Association.

Hegarty said he wasn't able yet to confirm or deny that the Cardinals had joined St. Joseph in a working agreement.

Lamb also was quoted as saying the Cardinals planned to transfer their Lynchburg, Va., franchise to St. Joseph, Hegarty said, "That is utterly ridiculous."

U. S. Athletes To Far Corners Of World In '53

SPOKANE, Wash., (P)—American athletes will perform in far corners of the world next year in response to invitations from countries as widely separated as Chile, Japan and Finland, the Amateur Athletic Union disclosed last night.

Meeting during the opening session of the Union's 64th annual convention, the foreign relations committee approved jaunts for the track stars, basketball players, boxers and bobsledders. Committees on the individual sports will consider the proposed trips today and are expected to tack on their okay.

Forty committees will be in session during the day, including the groups in charge of the Sullivan Award and selection of a convention site for 1953. Out of a large batch of nominees the Sullivan Award committee will pick five to ten finalists, with the eventual winner to be chosen by a national tribunal of some 500 sportsmen.

One of the trips abroad which got the nod of the foreign relations group was the entry of a U. S. team in the first women's world basketball championships next March in Santiago, Chile. This will be played before the American title is decided and no effort was made to pick a team now to represent the AAU. Hanes Hosier of Winston-Salem, N. C., now holds the U. S. crown.

Leaves For Air Force

Joe Ream of Hughesville, sports publicity director at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, left Wednesday to take Air Force cadet training at Lowry Field at Denver. Ream is a senior at the college.

The National Hockey League was formed on Nov. 22, 1917 and the first games were played on Dec. 19, 1917.

1953 LINCOLNS SWEEP FIELD IN MEXICAN PAN-AMERICAN RACE

Lincoln for 1953 is the automotive sensation of the world today!

1953 Lincolns in the Mexican Pan-American Race took not just first, not just second, but third and fourth places as well!

In the race participants call "the toughest stock car competition in the world," the winning Lincolns swept afield of 66 other American production cars representing 11 other makes—and won by a big time advantage.

The first 1953 Lincoln to cross the line was driven over the tortuous 1,938-mile course in a total elapsed time of 21 hours, 15 minutes and 38 seconds. Then, within 10 minutes and 58 seconds, the three other winning Lincolns swept in—with the last one fully 20 minutes ahead of its nearest competitor.

Never before has there been such a record established in this International Contest organized by the A.N.A. (Asociacion Nacional Automovilistica)—a run that includes altitudes ranging higher than 10,000 feet—over roads of every type and condition.

Never before has a great car so clearly demonstrated both its performance superiority and ruggedness in such a competitive test.

The 1953 Lincoln, with its advanced design 205-hp engine—the V-205—is the car to challenge all others this year. So see the 1953 Lincoln—which is powered to leave the past far behind. Try it—drive it—for the performance revelation of a lifetime!

Korean General Trained in Japan

(Editor's Note: The author of the following dispatch, John Fujii, was the first Japanese to represent an American news agency in Korea. Born in Japan and educated in the United States, he worked in the New York office of Asahi in 1938-39 and edited the Japanese-owned Singapore Herald from 1939-1941. Interned by the British after Pearl Harbor, he was repatriated and joined Domei News agency. He was an interpreter with the Japanese Southern Army headquarters when Japan surrendered. He has been with the AP since 1948. He here gives an unusual slant on the re-trained South Korean Army.)

By JOHN FUJII
TOKYO (AP) — A 34-year-old Korean general who once was an officer in the old Japanese Imperial Army, and later a prisoner of the Soviets, has capped a brief but brilliant military career by becoming the first South Korean to hold a high post in the U. S. Army command.

Lt. Gen. Chung Il Kwon was appointed deputy commander of the U. S. Ninth Corps under Lt. Gen. Reuben E. Jenkins. On Nov. 1 he had commanded the valiant Korean Second Division in the battle for Sniper Ridge on the Central Front.

A striking figure with long jet black hair, trim uniform and gleaming boots, Chung is a graduate of the highest military schools in Japan and the United States. He speaks English and Japanese fluently.

Summing himself on a rock in front of his command post on the Central Front just before moving to corps headquarters, Chung chatted with this correspondent in English and Japanese. He interrupted his remarks with orders in Korean to his staff officers.

This correspondent asked the general how much of the Korean Army's methods had been adapted from the old Japanese Army and how much was patterned after the U. S. Army.

"We have taken many things from the Japanese, but only the things which are good," he replied.

Chung emphasized that in training and equipment the Korean Army is largely American influenced.

However, he said the spiritual training of the Japanese soldier was high and that he wanted the South Koreans to be imbued with a similar high devotion to country.

The South Korean soldier eats in much the same way as the Japanese soldiers did in the field. The old messkit, the canteen, the boiled rice and bean-curd soup diet are the same.

Korean sentries shout out a "salute" when an officer passes. Japanese sentries did the same. Much of the terminology in the South Korean Army has been borrowed directly from the Japanese.

Chung himself was first a product of Japanese Army training. He was graduated from the Imperial Military Academy in 1939 and then studied at the Infantry and Cavalry Schools and the War College in Tokyo.

He was a captain in the Kwangtung Army when Japan surrendered. He was captured when the Soviet Second Ukrainian Army swept into Manchuria in the last week of World War II.

But Chung escaped the Reds and made his way back to South Korea where he joined the constabulary. He started as a captain in 1945 and by 1949 when the Republic of Korea Army was formed he had skyrocketed to constabulary chief of staff and the rank of brigadier general.

When the North Koreans pushed south of the 38th parallel in June, 1950, Chung was studying at the U. S. Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga.

He said he was summoned home by Gen. Douglas MacArthur to take over as chief of staff of the South Korean Army.

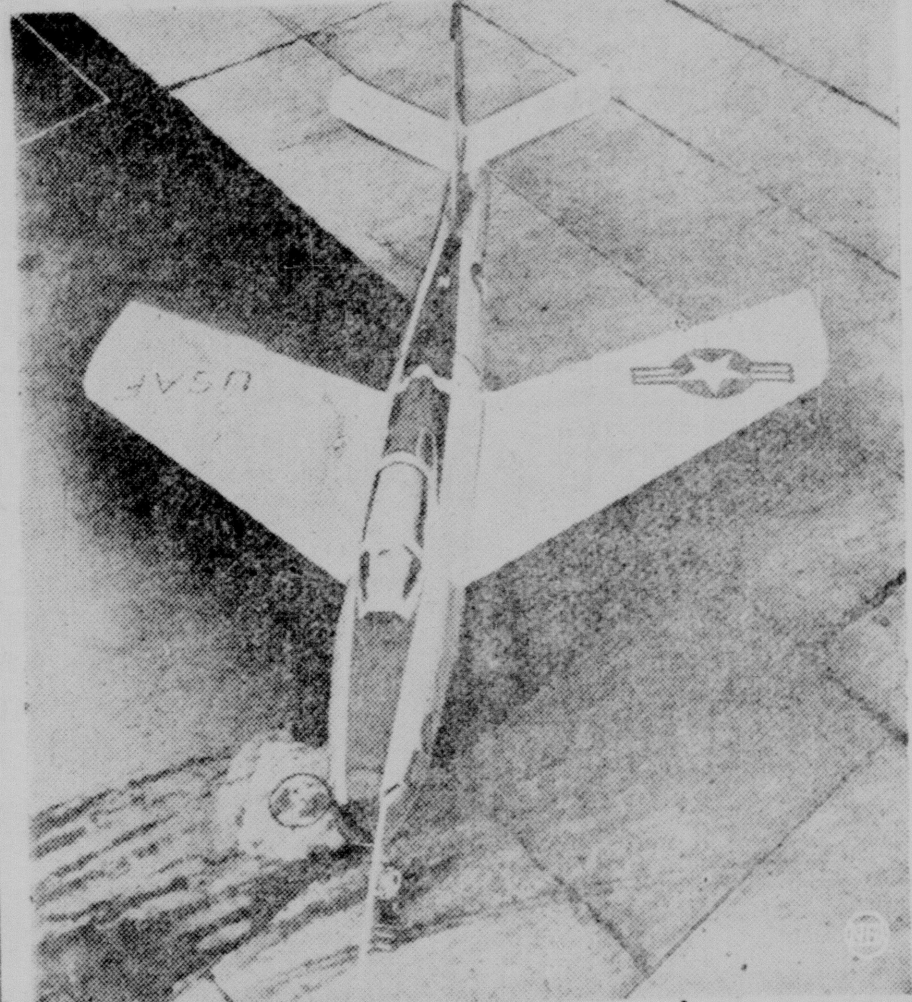

Asked why a lieutenant general was commanding a division, Chung said he had asked for the post because he had never commanded a combat unit.

The "Stand and Die" charges of his Second Division at Sniper Ridge have made combat history for the South Koreans, and brought new distinction to their leader.

"Staff work back in Taegu is lots of headaches. I love it on the front," he said, waving his hand over the rolling hills of his command.

Men's Vests Are Out, Likely Not to Return With Suits

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Many a stubborn male sighs for the return of the faithful vest.

But yearning isn't going to bring back the vest anymore than it will restore the dodo bird or revive vaudeville.

This is on the word of Spencer Witty, vice president of one of the nation's largest clothing manufacturing firms.

"The vest is finished," he said cheerfully. "It is very hard to get a vest today except contrasting or tattersall vests."

"Suits now are priced for two pieces—the coat and pants. If the vest reappeared it would cause terrible repercussions. I doubt if the public would pay an extra 15 per cent just to get a vest."

Witty said the ordinary man was happy to get rid of vests and that only sentimentalists and "older, conservative business men" still want them. When I asked him for examples, he said:

"Well, John Foster Dulles does wear a vest and Dean Acheson doesn't."

Taking a squint at current fashion trends for the vestless male, Witty also predicted the decline and fall of the double-breasted suit.

"It's poison now," he said. "Fat men still cling to the double-breasted suit in the fond belief it helps hide their bay window and makes them appear slimmer. 'Pure illusion,' said Witty ruthlessly. 'They might as well face the facts—the double-breasted suit has had its day and is now on the way out.'"

"Somehow I began to feel a bit sad. The vest gone, the double-breasted suit going—could anything else depart from a man's wardrobe and still leave him with anything except a loin cloth?"

"Well, yes," said Witty heartily. "The bold look and the natural look are now definitely out, as far as the better-dressed man is concerned."

The bold look? The natural look? I looked startled. I thought only women's clothes had a "look."

"Indeed, no," said Witty. "Men's suits had a bold look during the war days—wider shoulders, spread collar. Then right after the war we had the natural look. . . unpadded shoulders. . . loose fitting."

Well, it seems the bold look made a fellow look too wide for anybody to believe it was him, and the natural look made his shoulders look so narrow it depressed his wife.

"The present look is a compromise between the two," said Witty, "and it's a real benefit to the average man. It is less padded than the bold look and more flattering and athletic in appearance than the natural look."

Another nice prospect is that

Dulles Clears Ike Policies With State

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Relations between the Truman and Eisenhower administrations in the field of foreign policy for the next six weeks have now been clarified in talks between John Foster Dulles and top State Department officials.

Dulles, who will be secretary of state in President-elect Eisenhower's administration, made his initial post-election contacts with officials here during the past two days.

Barring some unforeseen and critical development Dulles, prior to taking office Jan. 20, will use the resources of the State Department to make a survey of (1) U. S. policies around the world, and (2) the department's operations.

He is not expected, however, engage in consultation on routine foreign operations or, as some officials here had thought probable, to make the State Department his headquarters.

Should an emergency arise it is understood that both Dulles and President-elect Eisenhower stand ready to consult with the present administration in an effort to form a united front in dealing with it.

Should Eisenhower and Dulles decide that some action was urgently required and should be taken by the United States before Jan. 20, the Truman administration stands ready to consider their recommendations and put them into effect if it agrees.

Dulles who came here Tuesday afternoon, conferred with State Department officials and also paid a call on Secretary of Defense Lovett.

In establishing his relations with his predecessor for the closing weeks of Truman's administration, Dulles had two major choices. He could:

1. Become temporarily a co-worker of Acheson and express his views on current foreign problems.

2. He could limit his acceptance of the administration's offer of all-out co-operation to the use of its facilities to learn about the task and will be his after Jan. 20.

In his conversations Dulles is reported to have made clear that his interest was in studying policy but not in consulting on operations for the interim period unless a crisis made that essential to the national interest.

Dulles also had and still has an opportunity to put into the department men who will be his principal aides when he takes over. So far, however, he has not named any of these and in fact it is understood that he has not yet chosen an undersecretary.

Five specially prepared volumes on the State Department and on international affairs were placed at Dulles' disposal, and he was told that departmental officers will be available to him whenever he wishes to get more detailed information.

The U. S. produces more than $1,000,000,000 worth of pig iron annually, a greater value than any other single manufactured product.

Family Still Saves Tree, But Boy Won't Return

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—The once-gay tinsel ornaments are a bit faded and dusty now. The branches are brittle and the needles are dropping off.

But a Christmas tree in a modest Albuquerque home still is waiting for a Marine who will never come home.

The tree was decorated two years ago...a special tree for a special Christmas for a special Marine. Cpl. Richard Lopez was coming home for good after two years in the merchant marine and six years in the Marine Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Lopez had just turned on the lights two years ago when a letter came from Richard. He would be a little delayed; the Chinese had just entered the Korean War. Please save the tree.

The branches were still green when they learned Richard was trapped with other Marines in the Chosen Reservoir area. The ornaments glowed a bit brighter when they learned he had escaped and was coming home.

They moved into another house and took the tree carefully along. They didn't notice the tree was turning brown until the day they got a telegram saying Richard had

Sir Thomas Beecham Injured In Taxi Ride

LONDON (AP) — Sir Thomas Beecham, Britain's explosive symphony conductor, is recovering today from a concussion suffered in a taxi ride.

Sir Thomas hit the ceiling — the taxi's—as he was getting out to make a recording several days ago. Last season Preacher Roe of the Dodgers allowed 30 home runs, but 21 of these came with the bases empty.
